AGGRESSORS ARE WARNED

Kelley's Body Lies in State In Greensburg

Services Saturday; Burial Monday In Washington; Election Necessary

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)— The body of Rep. Augustine B. Kelley (D-Pa.), severe Eisenhower administration foe and for 17 years a Pennsylvania congressman, arrived home today from Washington.

Kelley, a coal mine operator and leader in the fight for federal school aid legislation, died of cancer Wednesday in Suburban Hospital at Bethesda, Md. He was 74.

Kelley, a rugged Democrat who never shirked a fight, was the author of two school construction bills defeated by the House during the past two years, the latest measure only by a margin of two.

He was a leader of the progressive northern wing of House Democrats.

As second ranking Democrat on the House Education and Labor Committee, he was regarded as one of the top House experts on the field of education. He also served on the Joint Senate-House Economic Committee.

Will Lie In State

Kelley's body will lie in state after 7 o'clock tonight and Friday at the Cramer Funeral Home in Greensburg. A solemn requiem Mass will be sung Saturday morning at Blessed Sacrament Catholic Cathedral here. The congressman will be buried Monday in Arlington National Cemetery in Washington.

Kelley was first elected to Congress from the 21st Pennsylvania District in Nov. 1940, and was re-elected to successive terms.

He was a delegate to the International Labor Organization Conference at Montreal in 1946 and at Geneva, Switzerland, in 1947, 1950 and 1951. He was the congressional advisor to the ILO conference at Geneva last year.

He was a member of the Scale Committee of the Coal Operators Assn. of Western Pennsylvania from 1935 to 1939.

Kelley was operator of the Mammoth Coal and Coke Co., Greensburg, Pa., and was listed as a coal mine operator in the Congressional Directory.

Entered Hospital Nov. 12

Kelley, father of nine children, entered the hospital Nov. 12 because his physician felt he had been too active while convalescing from a major operation in September.

He subsequently developed a serious kidney ailment. Before his death, he received the last rites of the Catholic Church. His office subsequently said the direct cause of Kelley's death was cancer.

Kelley was born in New Baltimore, Pa. July 9, 1883. He attended elementary and high schools in Greensburg and attended the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

Kelley's death left the House with three vacancies, all Democrats and all resulting from recent deaths The line-up now stands at 231 Democrats and 201 Republicans. One of the Republicans, Rep. W. Sterling Cole (N.Y.) is stepping out Dec. 1 to become director of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

The Pennsylvania Elections Bureau said that under state law, Governor George M. Leader must issue a writ for a special election

Rostraver Twp. Damage Suit in Auto Accident

A damage suit has been filed in Westmoreland County Court as a result of an auto accident in Rostraver Twp. on Nov. 29, 1955.

The suit, which claims damages in excess of $2,500, lists Jack F. Johnson and Jack V. Johnson, Rostraver Twp., as the defendants.

Plaintiffs in the suit are Earl C. and Mettie J. Lynn, parents of John R. Lynn, a minor, and the First National Bank of Greensburg.

The suit states that the Lynn boy was riding in the back seat of a jeep driven by Herbert C. Smith Jr. It alleges that an auto owned by Jack F. Johnson and driven by Jack V. Johnson was stalled on the highway.

At the request of Johnson, Smith undertook to push the Johnson car, according to the suit. After pushing the Johnson vehicle for a distance of two and one-half miles, Johnson suddenly made a left turn, causing the Smith car to leave the highway and overturn, the complaint states.

As a result, Lynn suffered severe physical injuries, including an injury to his brain, according to the suit.

Pianist to Play Tonight in Civic Music Concert

Heinz Hammerman, Austrian pianist, will play a program of standard classical works in the opening concert of the sixth annual series of the Monessen-Belle Vernon Civic Music Association here tonight.

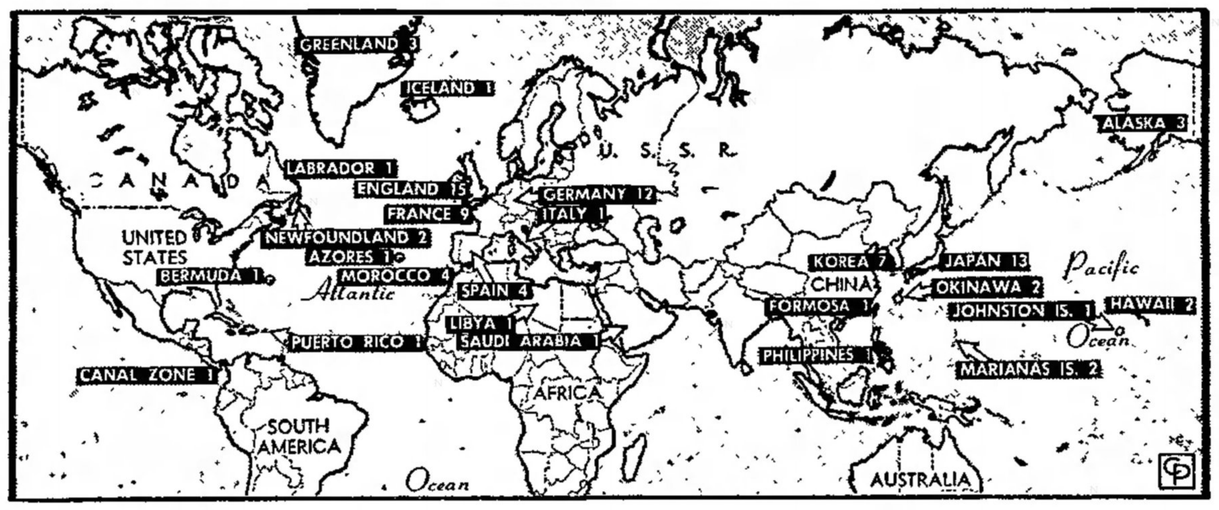
The program will include the Sonata in E Flat Major by Beethoven; Sonata in B Minor by Liszt; three works by Alexander Scriabin, and the Scherzo No. 3 in C Sharp Minor and Ballad in G Minor, both by Chopin.

Hammerman, hailed as one of the "coming" young virtuosos, has been in the United States for the past ten years, studying under noted teachers in New York. Previously he had studied in Chile and Argentina where he and his mother had fled after the Nazi absorption of Austria.

Now in his middle 20s, Hammerman is making his first transcontinental tour of the U.S. His New York debut in 1955 drew enthusiastic praise from critics.

Tonight's concert in the High School auditorium begins at 8:15. The doors will open at 7:30, there being no reserved seats.

Only those holding Civic Music membership cards are admitted to its concerts. No tickets are sold for single numbers.



RUSSIA RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE — Map shows where the U. S. Air Force has more than 90 air bases on foreign soil, and they form something of a ring around the Soviet. Many of these bases are for long range bombers, which can carry atom bombs. The Strategic Air Command has 70 such bases, some in the U. S. Estimated SAC strength is 2,000 medium and long range bombers. The push of a button at Omaha, Neb., HQ can get them into the air from any of the 70 longe range bases within 15 minutes.

Dulles Pledges U. S. Help to NATO Nations

CHICAGO (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Wednesday night that a "Pearl Harbor" attack on U. S. allies would trigger a counter-attack ordered by American commanders on the spot.

Dulles said in a news conference that instant retaliation would follow any attack on the U. S. or its NATO allies because their forces are so meshed "certain kinds of attack" would call for an American counter-attack.

Speaking later before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, Dulles said the grave dangers of international Communism were dramatically brought home to the Free World by the launching of Sputniks I and II.

Dulles said the temporary advantages won by Soviet power in the missile field pose a threat that can be met one of three ways:

Lists Ways

1—Make a deal with the Communists.

2—Go it alone against them.

3—Meet in cooperation with other free nations and form alliances like NATO.

There was no doubt Dulles considered NATO-type alliances the obvious defense against Russian menace.

The first proposal involves accepting Russian promises and, in turn, ending the ban on shipments of strategic goods to satellite nations and ending security pacts such as NATO and SEATO. The list of repudiated Russian promises rules this out unless there are enforcable safeguards, Dulles said.

Go it alone, he said, and the U. S. would have to resort to a controlled economy such as Russia's and a large military establishment.

Collective Policy Best

Collective defense, the policy which has been keeping the people of the world free since 1950 with no Russian advances, is the best solution available to the Free World, Dulles said.

Following his speech, Dulles made these points in a question and answer period:

—Russia has adopted a me-too policy in copying U. S. policies of foreign aid.

—Freedom must be made so desirable, no despotisms can prevail against it.

—The present situation in Russia cannot last forever, although he does not know when it will end.

—West Germany would have to direct any policies involving an anti-Red uprising in East Germany. U. S. policy would not trade the wiping out of East Germany and other satellites at the risk of global war.

Latrobe Firm Has Mill to Roll Missile Steel

LATROBE, Pa. (UP)—The Latrobe Steel Company unveiled an industry first Wednesday—a three-million-dollar rolling mill capable of reducing superalloy steels used in jet and missile production.

Officials said the 32-inch cogging mill which also will produce high-speed tool steel, was a marked improvement over the time-honored hammer and press forging methods.

J. E. Workman, executive vice president, said the rolling method would cut production time down to one-tenth of that of other methods.

The mill is capable of squeezing a 4,000-pound ingot into a three-inch square billet or slab up to 12 inches wide.

A new type roll is the key to reducing the superalloy or high-speed steels without damage to its structural center. The diamond-grooved rolls distribute the hot deformation of the ingot more evenly, producing the "kneading" action required to compact and refine the internal structure of the ingot.

Furnaces are divided into 10 sections, enabling as many as 10 different heating temperatures to be used simultaneously.

Surgeon General Calls for End To Mass X-rays

WASHINGTON (UP) — U. S. Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney called today for an end to community-wide mass X-ray programs for spotting tuberculosis cases.

The government's chief health officer said such surveys should be restricted to the "greatest risk" groups because of potential radiation hazards. He mentioned hospitalized persons, low-income groups, migrant workers and persons known to have been exposed to the disease.

Burney urged communities to use the tuberculin skin test as the first step in discovering tuberculosis. Chest X-rays, he added, should be limited to those showing a positive reaction to the skin test.

He sent the recommendations to state and local health officers. He explained they were based on the findings of a group of medical experts summoned here recently to consider the problem of X-ray radiation and the changing tuberculosis picture.

A public health spokesman said the group agreed chest X-ray programs should be on a selective rather than a "shotgun" community basis. He indicated the era of mass adult X-rays was over because "there is little yield of new cases."

Davis Appeals Death Sentence

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Attorneys for Robert Tallie Davis, 29, under sentence of death for the slaying of an Armstrong County housewife, have appealed his conviction and sentence to the state Supreme Court.

Davis, of Pittsburgh, was convicted of first degree murder in the death of Mrs. Emily Shupe Foster last Jan. 30. The young, expectant mother was found bludgeoned to death near her home in Leechburg.

Davis' attorneys asked the high court to set aside the first degree murder conviction and the jury decree of death in the electric chair.

McGranery Sets Sights on Democratic Senatorial Nod

PITTSBURGH (UP) —James P. McGranery, former federal judge, congressman and U. S. attorney general, may have his sights set on the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator from Pennsylvania.

If so, he will be battling the state Democratic organization — as he has been doing the past 15 years.

Friends of the Philadelphia attorney, who now has law offices in Washington, linked him in a cross-state movement designed to wrest control of the party leadership from Gov. George M. Leader and Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh.

These sources paired McGranery with Allegheny County Coroner William D. McClelland, who tried unsuccessfully to get the Democratic nomination for governor in 1954.

McGranery said he would be glad to run for the Senate, with McClelland again trying for the gubernatorial nomination, "if I am convinced it is my duty to run."

In Truman Cabinet

McClelland would not commit himself but said a McGranery-primary would be good geographi-McClelland ticket in next May's cally."

McGranery was a congressman from 1936 to 1943. In 1942 he tried to take the Democratic senatorial nomination from the late Sen. Francis J. Myers.

He resigned a lifetime appointment on the federal court bench in 1952 to become attorney general in President Truman's cabinet. He held the post nine months, until President Eisenhower took office.

Lawrence, who is a Democratic national committeeman, and Richardson Dilworth, then district attorney and now mayor of Philadelphia, opposed McGranery's cabinet appointment.

"He is absolutely unfit to be attorney general," Dilworth then said. "He has no judicial temperament."

Dilworth is a front-runner for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination next year. He has not announced his candidacy.

Three School Districts Added To Charleroi

The state Council of Education today approved a transfer of three districts which, in effect, paved the way for a school jointure in the Charleroi area.

Allenport, Dunlevy and Stockdale schools districts were moved from Unit 8 to Unit 6 of the Washington County master plan. This placed the three districts into the same unit with Charleroi.

Such a move was necessary before the proposed Charleroi jointure could be effected. Other districts already in the Charleroi unit are Speers, Twilight, Fallowfield Twp. and North Charleroi.

Previously, Allenport, Dunlevy and Stockdale had been grouped in the California area.

D.L. Glunt, superintendent of Charleroi public schools, said the Council action indicates that the state Department of Public Instruction is "sympathetic" with the jointure proposal.

However he added "there is still much work to be done" before the eight interested districts reach an agreement.

Before the jointure is completed, each district must approve the action and the state must add its blessings.

"We have made progress along that line, but there is nothing definite yet," said Glunt.

Three Juveniles Are Arrested

Three juveniles from Monessen, Webster and Fellsburg were arrested by Constable Harry Weightman, Rostraver Twp., yesterday in connection with a burglary in Monessen Nov. 7.

Reportedly, the youths broke into the workshop of Cecil Boyd at 101 Schoonmaker Ave. rear and looted the place of an assortment of hunting equipment, including knives, guns, shells, binoculars and a lantern. Most of the loot has been recovered.

They gained entrance through a rear window.

They will be turned over to Westmoreland County juvenile authorities.

Work to Begin On Brownsville Bridge Next Year

Work on a $10,000,000 bridge across the Monongahela River at Brownsville will begin early next year.

Lewis M. Stevens, state Secretary of Highways, said construction of the bridge was authorized last February by the U. S. Bureau of Roads. However he said actual work has been held up while state and federal agencies ironed out details of the construction.

Stevens predicted sub-structure of the bridge will be started during the first six months of 1958.

The bridge will carry U. S. Route 40 over the Monongahela River between Brownsville and West Brownsville. It will be situated north of the present structure.

The project, which will re-locate Route 40, will begin on the Washington County side about three miles west of the river and a half mile north of the present Route 40 location.

It will continue to a point about a third of a mile north of Blainsburg, where it joins Route 88 at an interchange. On Route 88 a major relocation will be provided to reduce a heavy grade.

Illegally parked cars, the chief stated, will be towed away at the owner's expense. The owner also will be fined for violating traffic rules.

Kuvinka said many millmen in the area "just park their cars anywhere. We're definitely going to tow away all illegally parked vehicles."

Prime Suspect In Pittsburgh Slaying Nabbed

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Vincent Scatena Jr., 31, surrendered to police today as a prime suspect in Sunday's torture-murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Ensinger, an 84-year-old crippled widow.

Scatena, booked as an accessory before and after the fact of murder, walked into the Central Police Station accompanied by his attorney, Pierce O'Connor, and immediately invoked the Fifth Amendment.

"I refuse to answer any questions on grounds my answers may tend to incriminate me," he said.

Scatena, who has a police record, was one of two suspects named by Mrs. Ann Garrison, 37, who lives within a block of the murder scene. She formerly worked for Scatena as a waitress in his Bloomfield district restaurant.

Authorities said they were searching for a second man. His identity was not revealed.

Mrs. Garrison had been held two days as a material witness. She was freed Wednesday by Judge Walter P. Smart on a habeas corpus petition over the objections of Asst. Dist. Atty. Samuel Strauss.

Police held Scatena in custody just four week ago when he was accused of lending two friends an automobile and pistols they used in an abortive North Side robbery attempt. He was released on bond.

'Gangland Convention' Probes Ordered by Governor of N.Y.

ALBANY, N. Y. (UP) — A full-scale state investigation of the Apalachin mountain-top "gangland convention" was pressed today by order of Governor Harriman.

Investigations Commissioner Arthur L. Reuter, the state police and "a number" of other agencies were involved in the multi-faceted inquiry.

The governor announced Wednesday night he has called for a complete state police report of the surprise raid that broke up the "convention" and bagged some 60 top hoodlums and friends for questioning. He directed Reuter "to look into the activities and associations of those attending the meeting," and added that he has "set in motion a number of inquiries by other state agencies."

(Gabriel "Kelly" Mannarino, New Kensington racket figure, was one of the 60 picked up in the raid. He said he was just visiting a "sick friend.")

A spokesman for Harriman declined at the time to identify what other agencies were entering the picture but acknowledged the state tax might be "a good guess." Also mentioned were the state division of parole and the state liquor authority.

Joseph Barbara, whose palatial mountain-top estate was the scene of the meeting last Thursday, is a beer and soft-drinks distributor in Endicott. The mobsters and their pals all said they were just visiting him as a "sick friend."

The raid which netted notorious figures as Vito Genovese, whom former Governor Dewey once labeled "king of the rackets," was staged by state troopers. An influx of high-priced cars and an out-of-season boom in motel business had drawn police attention.

In other developments Wednesday:

U.S. Atty. Paul W. Williams in New York called for the tax returns of those at the "crime cartel convention." He said nine of them have been under investigation by a special grand jury probing racketeering in the garment and trucking industries.

Williams said the nine men under investigation by the special grand jury were: Russell Buffalila, Carlo Gambino, John Ormento, Joseph Profaci, Joseph Riccobono, Joseph Rosato and James Osticco.

The Republican Legislative Watchdog Committee said it too will "take a good look" at the crime confab. Committee Chairman William S. Horan said it probably would be interested in the "speed" with which the underworld figures were freed.

At Binghamton, two New York City detectives left for home after looking into any possible connection between the meeting and the recent slaying of mobster Albert Anastasia. Nearly a dozen detectives from various other cities have been in the area in the past few days.

Duvall Urges Support For Economy League

A Pittsburgh Steel Co. executive last night urged more companies to support the Pennsylvania Economy League in order to provide "taxation with representation."

The suggestion was made by Donald C. Duvall, Monessen, who is assistant to the president and vice-president-industrial relations at the Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Speaking before the Washington County Chapter of the Economy League, Duvall stated:

"There are many companies today who could be supporting the League and its work, but who are not."

Duvall said the Economy League "represents the interest of all citizens" because it seeks the highest possible governmental efficiency.

"Business does not balk at paying a reasonable tax t support state and federal government," continued Duvall. "It should balk — however — at paying unreasonable taxes or paying taxes which are used inefficiently."

The Pittsburgh Steel Co. official then admonished:

"As business executives, we've got to get over the mass inferiority complex the crash of '29 gave us. Before the depression, business and businessmen took a far greater part in community and civic affairs than they have done recently."

Duvall said that "government is growing, by necessity, larger and more complex; consequently, expense of government has been growing correspondingly."

To meet this complexity of increased government service and cost, Duvall pointed out "we must maintain units outside government which are impartial, competent, experienced, and dedicated to the proposition of maximum governmental efficiency."

Concluded Duvall:

"This type of representation is inherent in the Pennsylvania Economy League. It is up to us to increase our support of the League, thereby increasing its effectiveness."

Egypt Given $175 Million Loan from Soviet Russia

West Diplomats Say Loan Gives Reds Stranglehold

By UNITED PRESS

Russia and Egypt hailed today the "successful results of talks in Moscow" between Egyptian War Minister Abdel Hakim Amer and ic. Soviet leaders.

But western diplomats said despite Egypt's claim that "no strings" were attached the Soviet economic loan offer could give the Russians a stranglehold on the Egyptian economy.

Amer returned to Cairo from his mission to Moscow Wednesday. He brought with him a Soviet offer of 700 million rubles (178 million dollars at the arbitrary exchange rate set by Moscow) to help Egypt "develop her economy."

Double Syrian Aid

It was almost double what the Soviets promised Syria and far outstripped the estimated 40 million dollars in U.S. economic aid which was cut off after Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser already has mortgaged Egypt's cotton crop to the Communists under his arms deal with the Soviet bloc.

Some of the details of the Soviet offer were disclosed today by a member of the Egyptian mission, Mohamed Hassanein Heikal, editor of the newspaper Al Ahram and a close friend of Nasser.

Heikal reported the loan was intended to help Egypt carry out its five - year industrialization program and break "the economic blockade the West has attempted to impose" since the Suez crisis.

Met Red Bigwigs

The Egyptian Information Ministry released a communique on Amer's visit to Moscow but gave no hint on the results. It said merely that Amer met with top Soviet officials, including Soviet Communist boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, in the Kremlin Wednesday to discuss "those questions of political and economic cooperation as well as military questions which were the subject of negotiations with the Egyptian delegation."

Heikal said military questions were not discussed at the Kremlin meeting.

Reports from Washington said the United States is maintaining a trickle of economic aid to Egypt in hopes the Egyptians eventually will break away from economic dependence on Russia.

The U.S. Wednesday released a $600,000 aid payment to th. Nasser government. It was the first grant in American aid since Nasser seized the Suez Canal last year.

Hospital Technician Takes Special Course

A laboratory technician from the Charleroi-Monessen hospital is taking a special course in cancer detection.

She is Miss Ruth Lutes, whose home is in Belle Vernon.

Miss Lutes is studying under Drs. John an Ruth Graham at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N. Y.

The Drs. Graham offer the three-month course free of charge. Miss Lutes' expenses are being paid by the Washington County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

She is the first technician to receive this special training in Washington County. Miss Lutes has been employed at the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital for a number of years and has spent the past three years in the tissue laboratory.

The special course deals with the study of body cells. Through a special process of staining, cancer cells can now be seen in the very earliest stage.

The cells are obtained from body tissues by physicians in a simple, painless test. The physician makes a slide which is studied through a microscope, and cancer cells can be seen if cancer is present.

The study of a great number of slides can become a burden and a problem to hospital pathologists. For this reason, technicians are trained to screen out all normal slides and those which are not normal are passed on to the pathologists.

Such a training program is being emphasized this year throughout Pennsylvania by the American Cancer Society. A film has been developed nationally which will soon be available for showing to women's groups; literature has been developed and women will be urged to avail themselves of this new service.

The Roswell Park Memorial Institute also trains pathologists in the more complicated techniques. Currently studying with Miss Lutes are physicians from Canada, South Africa, Brazil and Florida. There are also students from California, Sweden and Poland in her class.

Service Rivalry Charge Tossed By Investigator

WASHINGTON (UP)—A congressional investigator today threw an inter - service rivalry charge at U.S. rocket director William M. Holaday in a dispute over whether the nation is lagging in the 1,500 - mile intermediate range ballistic missile race.

Rep. George D. Mahon (D-Tex.), chairman of a House defense appropriations subcommittee, said competition among the services is one of the "serious stumbling blocks" to U.S. missile development.

Mahon following a closed hearing on missiles by his committee Wednesday said this country "undoubtedly" is behind Russia in both the intercontinental and intermediate range ballistic missile programs.

Holaday took issue with this statement, indicating it did not apply to the shorter range IRBM.

Then Mahon replied that he has information stating "very positively that we are lagging behind on the IRBM and the (5,000-mile) ICBM."

Holaday also said the U.S. does not know when it will catch up with Russia in ICBM development. He said there is no Pentagon target date for going ahead of the Soviets in missiles.

The administration, at the same time, moved to meet another congressional demand and establish an "integrated" office to push development of nuclear - powered planes and rockets.

Flu Deaths in State Triple Average Figure

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Health Department today disclosed that deaths attributed directly to pneumonia and influenza totaled 746 in October, more than three times the average figure for that month.

A United Press check of final figures in department records showed 558 persons died of pneumonia and 188 others from flu.

Also, pneumonia and flu were noted on 807 other death certificates, but were not listed as the primary cause in those cases.

Department statistics showed an average 233 persons die each year during the month of October from respiratory illnesses. During October, 1956, a total of 234 persons died from those ailments while 232 deaths were recorded during October, 1955.

The figures for last October pointed up the full impact of the flu outbreaks that gripped the state this fall.

The final report from counties throughout the state showed that Allegheny and Philadelphia counties were especially hard hit. The state's largest city recorded 109 pneumonia and 13 influenza deaths last month, while Allegheny County had 90 pneumonia and 28 flu fatalities.

Charge Railroads With Increasing Fares Deliberately

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Philadelphia city officials Wednesday accused the Pennsylvania and Reading Railroads of deliberately increasing fares to drive away passengers and reduce passenger service.

The accusations were hurled at the fourth session of the Public Utility Commission hearings on a proposed 15 per cent increase sought by the Pennsylvania, the Reading and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroads. The increases, due to go into effect last July 16 were postponed pending PUC investigations.

Harold E. Kohn, counsel for the city, charged that cities are being strangled by railroads which do not foster passenger business. He added that Philadelphia wants to prevent this strangulation which he predicted will occur if railroad passenger service "dries up."

Dwight D. Prince, Reading Railroad executive, countered that increased fares will not drive passengers away. He said the Reading company desires more passengers but that it lost nine million dollars in 1957. He added the losses will increase by one million each succeeding year.

McSorley Appeal For New Trial Is Considered

HARRISBURG (UP) — Dauphin County Court today considered an appeal for a new trial for suspended Turnpike Commission Chairman G. Frank McSorley, Pittsburgh.

McSorley was convicted last Saturday night by a jury of misconduct in office, stemming from his action in supplying a chauffeur at commission expense for former Chairman Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale, after Evans left office.

McSorley said the chauffeur was supplied in exchange for Evans' services as a consultant on turnpike matters.

Defense attorneys filed a double action motion Wednesday. Contending the verdict was against the evidence, they asked the court to either throw out the verdict or grant McSorley a new trial.

Vanguard Rocket Is Ready for Big Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP) — A slender Vanguard rocket was believed ready today for a trial launching which may determine when this nation can launch a satellite.

There was no indication whether scientists will attempt to orbit a six-inch test satellite with the rocket's firing test. Nor was there any indication when scientists plan to let fly with the black, white and gray missile.

The mid-section, carrying the vital "brain" for its war or moonhead, has already been tested successfully on the ground.

Might End Tests

There was speculation that if a test satellite is launched and goes into orbit, the remaining two scheduled test firings might be called off and an earlier attempt made to put up the actual satellite to match the Russian Sputniks.

Newsmen, who make frequent and often fruitless trips here when there is a hint of a "big shoot," had little to go on besides a brief unveiling of the rocket on the Air Force missile test center Wednesday, and the announcement from Washington that the "brain section" of the Vanguard had undergone successful statis firing at the center.

More Tests Needed

The Defense Department announcement indicated that more ground tests were needed before the rocket can be sent up from its launching pad. These may or may not have already taken place.

In Washington, J. Paul Walsh, deputy director of Project Vanguard, told a news conference that the second stage of the rocket had been successfully tested on the launching pad. The second stage contains the electronic equipment which will guide the rocket and satellite on the flight into space.

The last Vanguard test was Oct. 23. The Defense Department announced it had shot up to 109 miles above the earth, reaching a peak velocity of 4,250 miles an hour.

Ike Comes Home to Very Busy Schedule

WASHINGTON (UP) — Urgent missile spending decisions and preparation for crucial NATO talks in mid-December will plunge President Eisenhower into one of the busiest periods of his career when he returns today from Augusta, Ga.

The President has just a few weeks to lay out a new budget for Congress stepping up the missile effort and cutting back non-defense programs.

He also must come up with the rallying point for North Atlantic nations to meet Russia's new-found military-scientific strength.

Interlaced among these two major pressing problems the President will have secondary ones and the regular business of running the government to keep his hands full for the next six weeks. Top items:

—On Tuesday he makes his third "chins up" speech to the nation from Cleveland on the value of international cooperation to U.S. security.

Bipartisan Meeting Started

—He holds a bipartisan meeting Dec. 3 with Congressional leaders to go over the U.S. proposals for the NATO meeting.

—Before NATO he will confer with Adlai E. Stevenson, who is serving as a special NATO consultant.

—He also will confer with Republican leaders separately on his legislative program.

At the same time government economists are gloomily predicting a four million unemployment figure by February and labor leaders want the government to bolster the economy.

Some of the President's biggest headaches loom in deciding what shall be sacrificed domestically for defense as well as how much more money should be put into missiles.

According to current estimates defense spending may be upped one billion next year to 39 billion dollars.

Budget Director Percival F. Brundage said Wednesday night that any shift of expenditures would have to come from government "benefit programs." He mentioned specifically farm price supports, veterans allowances and housing.

Extension Plea For Sewage Plant Is Turned Down

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Sanitary Water Board has announced today it rejected a plea by eight Allegheny County communities for an extension of the July 1, 1959 deadline for construction and operation of sewage treatment plants.

The municipalities submitted a petition to the board asking for more time so that they could study the feasibility of a joint regional plant or plants. They said they also wished to explore the possibility of finding a cheaper means of treating sewage.

But the board said the deadline must stand since the communities "failed to offer concrete courses of action." The agency also pointed out that there is no firm commitment among the eight communities for centralized operation of treatment plants.

The municipalities are McKeesport, Duquesne, Versailles, Port Vue, White Oak, Glassport, Dravosburg and Elizabeth Twp.

for a successor to Kelley within 10 days from date of death. His successor will serve until Jan. 3, 1959.

Leader could set the election at any time but probably will set it for the primary, May 20, 1958, to save local election costs. Kelley's successor would serve until Jan. 3, 1959, when all Congress terms expire.

Kelley married Ella Marie Bates of Scottdale, Pa., in 1913. They had six sons and three daughters. The sons are A. Regis, Bethesda, Md.; Dr. J. Hilary, Greensburg, Pa.; Richard B., Washington; Robert V., Bluefield, W. Va.; James R., Arlington, Va., and Capt. Paul A., Fort Sheridan, Ill.

The daughters are Mrs. Robert M. Schellenberg, Mrs. Henry B. Brown Jr. and Mrs. H. R. Leisy, all of Bethesda, Md.

Missile Probe Monday

WASHINGTON (UP)—House investigators said today the Defense Department apparently intends to solve the controversy over 1,500-mile rockets by producing both the Air Force's Thor and Army's Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missiles (IRBM's).

Meanwhile, Senate investigators preparing to launch major missile hearings Monday have been secretly interviewing top scientists and collecting public statements made by Pentagon officials over the past three years it was learned.

Will Begin Next Week

The Senate Preparedness subcommittee headed by Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) has advised Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy and Undersecretary Donald A. Quarles to be ready to testify Tuesday or Wednesday.

Informed sources said tentative plans call for the leadoff witnesses to be Dr. Edward Teller, recognized "father" of the H-bomb, and Dr. Vannevar Bush, long-time scientific adviser to the government.

Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex.), chairman of the House Military Appropriations subcommittee investigating the lag in U.S. missile development, said testimony so far indicated no final decision has been made on the Thor-Jupiter controversy.

Sikes Convinced

Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes (D-Fla.), a committee member, said he was convinced that as of now the Pentagon is planning to go ahead with both the Thor and Jupiter. He termed it an "excellent idea."

McElroy told the group Wednesday the United States was in "good shape" on its IRBM program and probably would speed up development of an anti-missile missile.

He also said the program for development of an intercontinental ballistics missile was "on schedule." He gave no indication when this country might have an ICBM. It hopes to have enough IRBM's to stock overseas bases by mid-1959.

There are believed to be only three copies of Noah Webster's first American dictionary extant.

UN Is Warned By Saudi Arabia And Indonesia

UNITED NATIONS (UP)—United Nations delegates today weighed warnings that two important sectors of the Eastern world may turn Communist unless their territorial demands are satisfied.

Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio and Saudi Arabian Minister of State Ahmad Shukairy delivered the warnings in two separate U. N. committee meetings Wednesday.

Shukairy, speaking in the special Political Committee debate on Palestine refugees, said the West might lose not only Saudi Arabia but the entire Arab world to Russia if it maintains its present policy toward Israel.

Subandrio, in the main Political Committee's debate on West New Guinea, declared that Indonesia might be forced to abandon its "active independent policy" if the Netherlands does not surrender the disputed territory.

Shukairy proposed the return of 900,000 Arab refugees to their Palestine homes, prohibition of Jewish immigration to Palestine, outlawing of Zionism, prohibition and creation of a U.N. agency to send Israel's Jews back to their original homelands.

Debt Ceiling May Be Lifted, Anderson Says

WASHINGTON (UP)—Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson said today that the administration may ask Congress next year to raise the 275-billion-dollar ceiling on the national debt.

He said no final decision has been made, however, and "we will continue to make every effort" to remain within the present spending limit.

Anderson, in his first appearance before a congressional committee since he became Treasury secretary, testified at hearings on financing problems being conducted by the House Small Business Committee.

In deciding whether the limit should be raised, Anderson said, many things "will have to be weighed."

These, he said, will include the size of the administration's new spending budget to be submitted to Congress in January and problems involved in management of the debt.

The Treasury already is close to the ceiling on spending. There have been reports the administration would seek a temporary debt increase at least in view of increased spending for defense.

Honesty vs. Waste Election Issue, Bloom Claims

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom said today the principal issue of next year's statewide election campaign would be "honesty in government" versus "reckless waste of the taxpayers' money."

Bloom told the opening session of the 35th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women here that the Democratic administration of Gov. George M. Leader was built around a "program of lies, deception and reckless waste."

"The most important thing the people will have to decide next year is whether they are going to continue these policies and reward with another high office the man who went up and down this state promising to cut taxes and put into effect...economies through reorganization of our state government," Bloom said. "Then in a few short months, after he was elected, he repudiated every promise he ever made in this regard."

Bloom accused Leader of "practicing the technique of the 'big lie' as no one has ever practiced it before in Pennsylvania."

"He will be retired to private life next November as an object lesson to all future politicians who think they can win political power by practicing deception on the voters of this state," Bloom said.

Bloom's comment about another high office for the governor was a reference to a feeling in political circles that Leader will seek the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator in 1958.

State in Need Of About 10,000 More Nurses

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Pennsylvania needs about 10,000 more nurses to provide patients in the state with the right kind of nursing care, the Pennsylvania Nursing Association was told Tuesday.

The lack of enough nurses isn't a crisis in itself, but it's depriving some patients of the care they should have, Jane Brinton told the association's 53rd annual meeting.

Miss Brinton, of the extension service of Pennsylvania State University, reported on a four-year survey of nursing needs and resources in Pennsylvania. She headed an association committee which made the survey.

She said general hospitals in the state need at least 5,000 nurses and mental hospitals about 1,000 more.

But the most important problem facing the nursing profession, she said, lies in the effective use of present personnel.

Miss Brinton said the survey showed hospital administrators use nurses inefficiently, and nurses have too many "clerical and housekeeping" duties.

Robert Whitelaw Heads Fire Chiefs

Robert Whitelaw, North Belle Vernon fire chief, was elected vice-president of the Southwestern Pennsylvania Chiefs and Assistant Chiefs Assn. last night at a reorganization meeting in South Brownsville.

James Silbaugh, Uniontown, was elected president.

Installation will be held at the January meeting.

'Pinball' Case in The News

Fayette County's much-publicized "pinball case" will move into its second chapter on Monday.

That's when defense and state attorney will argue briefs before the Fayette County Court, sitting en banc in Uniontown.

Defense Atty. Louis C. Glasso and Deputy Atty. Gen. Frank P. Lawley have both indicated that they will appear Monday morning to continue the long delayed case.

However a report that the Liquor Control Board would have an attorney present has not been substantiated.

The case involved seizure of 41 pinball machines by state police in a series of raids on business places in Uniontown, Connellsville and Brownsville on June 20, 1957. Legal rights were banded back and forth until a hearing finally was set for late in July.

Expert Testifies

More than a week was consumed in presenting evidence and testimony in the hearing before Judge Eustace H. Bane. Three of the seized devices were brought into the courtrooms for additional support by the state, which also called an electronics expert from Pennsylvania State University.

The defense, led by Glasso, contended the pinball devices are not gambling machines, but are merely devices intended for amusement. Several witnesses contended they played simply for recreational purposes.

The state, however, claims the machines are gambling devices in their own right and in addition, were used for gambling purposes. State troopers testified they observed payoffs in several business places prior to making the huge raids.

Although the arguments will be heard Monday, a decision is not expected to be handed down by Judge Bane before several more weeks pass.

PRR Earnings Much Lower, Reports Show

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Net earnings of the Pennsylvania Railroad for the first 10 months of this year were 42 per cent lower than those for 1956, it was announced today.

Earnings per share for the period were $1.62, compared to $2.78 for the same period last year. Earnings for the full year of 1956 totaled $3.16 per share.

Net earnings for the past October were $1,710,365, compared to $5,3636,646 earned in the same month last year, the company said, a decline of 68 per cent. Gross revenues, which showed a 19 per cent increase in September, were 5.1 per cent lower than those in October, 1956.

The drop in earnings was attributed to the failure of charges for service to keep pace with rising costs and the lower volume of business.

Earl Ewing Is County Director of Recreation

C. Earl Ewing, former football coach at Greensburg High School, is Westmoreland County's first recreation director.

Ewing's appointment, made retroactive to Nov. 1, was approved this week by the Westmoreland County Recreation Committee during its regular meeting in Greensburg.

The new director will receive an annual salary of $2,500 for his part-time duties. He will remain as a teacher and athletic director at Greensburg High School.

The recreation director stressed the need for an adult recreation program in a preliminary report presented at the meeting and said he is preparing a long-range, county-wide program for residents of both small and large communities. The board expressed the hope that at least one county-wide recreational activity will be conducted early next year.

Among the possible programs for the immediate future already being investigated by Ewing are open clinics for trap-shooting, archery and youth bowling, all with free instruction.

County Director Ewing also is considering such activities as workshops for training volunteer playground personnel, rifle range clinics, a field day for county-wide summer playground exhibits, roadside rest stations, toboggan and ski clinics.

It was suggested that an effort be made to have the various paid recreation directors in the county get together from time to time and exchange ideas in a cooperative effort.

Commission Chairman Paul L. Shrum, Latrobe attorney, presided at the meeting. R. G. Blasiole of Southwest Greensburg, vice-president of the organization, served as secretary in the absence of Andrew N. Kritsky of Monessen.

Other commission members present were W. Everett Noel of Ligonier, Franklin P. Smith of Latrobe and Michael Sivak of United.

Members absent in addition to Kritsky were Edward A. Wolfe of Jeannette, D. Fred Graham of Vandergrift and Garfield Jones of New Kensington.

Democrats' 'Pros' And 'Eggheads'

AN INTERESTING and, we believe, potentially significant alignment of forces within the Democratic party in Pennsylvania is taking place as a prelude to next year's important statewide elections.

The opposing lines are not, of course, firm at this point, and it is more than just possible that compromises can be arranged to prevent a primary contest. Some party leaders, notably the venerable legislator and former newspaper editor, Hiram G. Andrews of Johnstown, are working hard towards this end.

But even if an open collision is avoided, the lines are still interesting and still significant, especially because Pennsylvania has become a genuine two-party state.

* * *

IT IS POSSIBLE to classify the Democratic factions as the "eggheads" and the "pros". You could get many arguments about who fits into which category, but the general outline is fairly clear nevertheless.

On the "egghead" side would be young Gov. George M. Leader, U. S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark and Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia.

On the "pro" side you would have to place such figures as Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman of Washington County, Congressman William J. Green, the party's Philadelphia chairman and Westmoreland County's State Sen. John H. Dent.

This classification has omitted one massive political figure in Pennsylvania. Pittsburgh's Mayor David L. Lawrence. And his place in this division of forces may be most interesting — and most significant — of all.

An "egghead" ticket for next year would probably include Leader for the Senate and Dilworth for governor. The "pro" ticket would probably have Furman as the gubernatorial candidate with somebody else — maybe Dent — running for the Senate.

The interesting part about Mayor Lawrence's position is that, while he is probably the champion professional politician of the whole lot, as of now he is in the "egghead" camp. His candidate for governor is Dilworth.

But the "pros" definitely do not care for the likes of Dilworth. He thinks too much — and sometimes says what he thinks. As for instance in the recent election campaign when he refused to support the Democratic ticket in Philadelphia, making the public observation that "it stinks."

Sen. Dent's position naturally has particular interest in this vicinity. While the Westmoreland senator represented the Leader administration on the Senate floor — and made a good job of it — he has been making no secret of his opposition to the governor next year.

* * *

REP. ANDREWS has already proposed a compromise ticket — Leader for the Senate and Furman for governor with Dent for secretary of internal affairs. But that omelet would require some pretty expert mixing.

Somewhere in this still-confused picture — but nobody knows quite where as yet — is Dr. William D. McClelland, the Allegheny coroner who gave Mr. Leader a hot race for the governor nomination and who says he still would like to be governor.

Pennsylvania's Democrats may make 1958 a very interesting political year, regardless of what the Republicans may or may not do.

Concern in Order

ALTHOUGH there is hardly a direct cause and effect relationship, we should not be surprised to see teachers' salaries go up as one of the results of Sputnik's emergence.

During Queen Elizabeth's visit to this country she was taken to see a football game between two leading universities. The governor of a state was her host. When the teams came onto the field, the queen is supposed to have asked: "Where do you get all these players?" The governor answered, "Your Majesty, that is a very embarrassing question".

He was referring of course to the fact that major college football has become big business, with certain rare and honorable exceptions. Promising players are bought in a multitude of devious ways. Many alumni seem to think that the first duty of higher education is to produce winning teams capable of filling multi-million-dollar stadia that would have impressed the Caesars.

The coaches have been getting salaries and emoluments that would pop the eyes of a physics professor. The rough jolt to American pride delivered by the Sputnik has prompted some public wonderment, however. A popular discussion point concerns whether there is an educational lag in America and to what extent this may be the result of misplaced emphasis.

We think there is some health in the situation that causes Americans to pause in their preoccupation with the tint of the new air conditioner, the pile of the broadloom rug, the height of the tail fin on the new car. And it's fine with us if the head of the physics department gets at least equal billing with the athletic director.

Merry-Go-Round—

Rivalry Is Cause of Lag On Missiles

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — One reason for our disastrous lag behind Russia on satellites and missiles is the bickering between the armed services. This was tacitly admitted when new Secretary of Defense McElroy gave the green light to the Army to fire one of the six Army satellites which have been gathering dust in a Huntsville, Ala., warehouse because the Navy was in charge of the satellite project.

Mr. Pearson

This was a victory for Col. John Nickerson, court-martialed for protesting that the Army had been euchred into a back seat in the missile race. More important, it highlighted the backbiting, cutthroat competition between the Army, Navy and Air Force which has reached a point where the nation's security has seriously suffered.

It was only a few short years ago that the three armed services were put under one Secretary of Defense in order to prevent this bickering. Yet today rivalry has reached an all-time peak. Never has it been so bad.

To illustrate: the Army missile base at Huntsville looks over Air Force officers very carefully before they are allowed security clearance to come to Huntsville. They get clearance in the end, but not without enough red tape to make the Air Force wonder whether they are members of a foreign power rather than fellow defenders of the USA.

Directives Weakened

Again, when civilian representatives of the Secretary of Defense meet with representatives of the Army, Navy and Air Force on materiel matters, they sometimes act as if they were representing three foreign governments. When it comes to writing specifications for such things as motors for missiles, all three services hang back from revealing too much to the other.

In the end, the directive is so watered down, in order to please all three, that it's almost meaningless.

One reason for uniting the three services under one cabinet member was to save money. It was arranged that instead of buying different towels, sheets, underpants, boots, dishes, artillery, rifles and sometimes bidding against each other, the Army, Navy and Air Force could pool their buying.

But getting such cooperation has been a superhuman task. Some of it has been accomplished. But whenever the budget is cut, the personnel studying joint purchases are taken off that job.

It's estimated by some civilians in the Defense Department that five billions could be saved, if the three armed services pooled their buying and also required competitive bidding instead of plus-cost contracts.

Started Under Roosevelt

The big question is: Why hasn't unification worked? Why hasn't the Secretary of Defense cracked military heads together?

Charles E. Wilson was a big businessman, onetime head of General Motors, supposedly skilled in efficiency and money saving. But under him the armed services ran more wild than ever. He exercised no authority. It's too early yet to judge his successor, Neil McElroy, another big businessman, head of Proctor and Gamble, one of the biggest soap companies in the world. But so far he's leaned over backward to please, not boss the armed services.

What's the reason?

To get the answer you have to go back perhaps to Roosevelt's day, when the Army and Navy got into the habit of running to the White House. Under the traditional American system, the Army and Navy are supposed to be bossed by civilian secretaries. But FDR loved the Navy and ran the Navy. The admirals always knew they could go over the head of the Secretary of the Navy direct to the President, and they did — time after time.

In one case, Charles Edison, later Governor of New Jersey, resigned when he tangled too vigorously with the admirals and they went to the White House.

The generals, not to be outdone by the admirals, also took their troubles to the White House. They couldn't always see Roosevelt, but they had a sympathetic friend in General "Pa" Watson, his military aide.

Truman Tougher

President, Truman, who succeeded FDR, was tougher on the military. He fired General MacArthur, exiled Adm. Arthur Radford and Adm. Arleigh Burke when they undercut the Air Force. But, under Truman, the admirals and the generals went direct to Congress, sometimes over the head of the White House.

If they didn't like a budget cut, they whispered that fact to certain friends on Capitol Hill. To get what they wanted out of Congress they organized one of the most effective lobbies in Washington.

Dead, Or Just Playing Possum?

Today and Tomorrow—

What's Wrong with NATO?

By WALTER LIPPMANN

It is well understood that within the NATO alliance there is a crisis of confidence. This crisis has been in the making for some years. But it has been brought to a head since the launching of the Sputniks — more specifically, by the demonstration that the Russians are substantially ahead of the United States in the development of rockets, and ahead, therefore, in the race of armaments.

Mr. Lippmann

We must ask ourselves why, long before the Sputniks, there was in the making a crisis of confidence. The answer, I think, is that when NATO was founded, certain deep and dangerous issues, which have since caused great trouble, were in the interest of harmony more or less deliberately glossed over.

NATO, we must remember, is a pact for the defense of all the countries of Western Europe which lie west of the Iron Curtain, excluding only Sweden, Switzerland, Austria, Ireland and Spain. Algeria is included in NATO, being treated as a part of France. The pact is concerned with military aggression against the territory lying inside the lines on an official map. This a crucial point. For the pact says nothing about any other area of the world — nothing about Eastern Europe, the Middle East, the Far East, South Asia or Africa.

Have Wide Interests

Yet almost all the great powers in NATO have interests, some of them very important, some which they regard as vital, beyond the boundaries of the official map of NATO. There is France in North Africa. There is all of Western Europe vitally interested in the oil of the Middle East. There is the American interest in Korea, Japan, Formosa.

In this lies one of the great causes of misunderstanding within NATO. Each of the great powers is disposed to feel that in the outside areas where it is most concerned, it is entitled to expect the support of all the other NATO allies, whether or not they are directly concerned. There has been a strong feeling in the United States that in regard to Korea, Formosa, and our own boycott of Red China our NATO allies have not played the game. The same kind of feeling exists today in France, because we do not underwrite the whole of French policy in North Africa. The same feeling exists in Britain, as well as in France, that we acted contrary to the spirit of the alliance in the Suez affair last year.

Crisis of Confidence

These conflicts of interest have played an important part in producing the crisis of confidence. They are compounded by a dual doubt — on the one hand, whether we might drag Europe into a war which broke out in Asia; on the other hand, whether if war broke out in Europe, we could be counted upon in the age of ballistic missiles to risk the destruction of New York or Detroit in the defense of, say, West Berlin.

Reduced to its simplest elements, this is the anatomy of the crisis which is to be dealt with at the NATO meeting in Paris in December. Is NATO a regional pact for the defense of Western Europe? Or is it the core of a world alliance for the containment of Communism? These are hard questions to answer specifically, and the real policy of the NATO powers has been not to spell them out in advance but to deal practically with separate cases as and when they arose.

The NATO powers do not know, and have not thought it the part of wisdom to try to say what would happen in, for example, Iceland which is within NATO, if we had to go to war to defend Iran, which is outside of NATO. We have an obligation to Iran. But what is the obligation of Iceland to Iran?

Need Policy for Europe

On the general rule that hard cases do not make good law, we shall be hoping, I take it, that at the Paris meeting a way will be found not to define and decide the hardest questions. For NATO cannot be transformed into a world alliance capable of taking a united position on all great world questions. We shall do very well indeed if we can restore confidence in NATO as an instrument for the security of Europe.

My own view, which I know is not widely held, is that the inner conflicts within NATO will cause it to disintegrate — not next year but in the course of time — unless the NATO powers can agree on a common policy which is pointed towards an eventual security agreement with Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. In other words, I doubt whether NATO can have a common policy in Asia and Africa. But it could conceivably have a common policy to defend Europe by an overall system of security.

National Affairs—

Negroes to Concentrate On Voting in South

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP) — Negro leaders are directing the civil rights controversy away from the congressional arena and into the polling places of the southern states.

Southern white Democrats probably must shift their attention from the schools to the ballot boxes if they are to meet this new trend. Regardless of the merits of the controversy, the Negro strategy appears to be sound and promising.

Mr. Wilson

Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr. (D-Mich.) is a Negro who knows about politics. He recently counselled his race, as follows:

Says South Misguided

"The South is misguided by white politicians competing with each other. The only language a politician understands, especially a southern politician, is the ballot."

Now comes Roy Wilkins, national executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) with a plan. Wilkins announced in Atlanta, Ga., that NAACP would attempt to get 3,000,000 southern Negroes to the polls.

He will be aided in that effort by the voting rights guarantee enacted at the last session of Congress. Wilkins said about 5 per cent of eligible southern Negroes were presently registered and that the campaign would seek to make it 60 per cent.

Seek Complexion Change

First objective of this get-out-the-vote campaign is to change the complexion of southern legislatures. If that complexion were changed so, too, would be changed the complexion of the delegations of southern states to the United States Congress.

The impact of such changes would be felt far beyond the borders of the old South. Southern members of the U. S. Congress who were more or less responsive to Negro voters back home could and probably would team happily with northern Democrats who comprise the left wing of their party not only on civil rights but on domestic questions generally.

A more comprehensive welfare state and a greater centralization of government in Washington would be expected to flow from that. Congressional conservatives, of whatever party label, would become a more or less permanent minority, largely powerless to affect policy trends.

System Discourages Voting

The one-party system and the poll tax have tended in the South to discourage voting. The percentage of eligibles who trouble to go to the polls in some southern states is very low. The NAACP registration drive among Negroes should spark a Democratic registration campaign by southern whites.

Out of that, of course, could come a two-party system in the old South. It has been coming, although slowly. The use of federal troops in Little Rock generally is judged to have stopped the two-party trend cold. The drive of southern Negroes for ballot box power may start it again.

Only Mississippi among the southern states did not in 1956 record any votes for Republican candidates for the U. S. House of Representatives. Ten other southern states cast 1,646,000 votes for Republican house candidates. The total vote for Democratic candidates for the house was 4,746,000.

Not a bad start toward two parties.

The Lighter Side—

Poor New York City Having Its Troubles

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—Oh, leave us alone, will you? Let us work out our own problems. We New Yorkers are just like anybody else, except maybe a mite more stubborn—and jumpy at times.

We know we're backward, but we're trying. We need encouragement, not horselaughs, from the rest of the country.

A man from down south has sent this department a cheery little message, as follows:

"What happens when a city gets too complex, too overgrown, too mixed up? I'm thinking of New York.

'You Poor Fellows'

"Seems to me every time I pick up a paper I see that the subway is out of commission up there, the water mains have broken, the lights have gone out, the steam pipes are leaking, the Long Island trains are stopped, traffic is jammed up, there's no place to park, or the mail is late. You poor fellows."

Uh-huh. He forgets a couple. The National League has absconded to the West Coast — and the poor pedestrian is being told, gently but firmly, that he is no longer a free soul wandering in the asphalt wilderness.

For the moment, we're concentrating on reforming the pedestrians. And they're resisting strenuously. This week, the city began a long-heralded campaign against jaywalking. The idea is to try to educate New Yorkers against their impulse to walk out and get themselves killed.

To get an unbiased idea of how the campaign was working out for the first couple of days, we turned to Robert Vermillion, a businessman from the Orient who got into town on a visit as the anti-jaywalk campaign started.

"It's amazing," he said. "You have these big red blinking signs at the corners blazing with a 'don't walk' warning, and people just walk right out against them and dodge through traffic. At times there seem to be more people in the streets than there are on the sidewalks.

Taxi Driver Pitches In

"I came across town in a taxi, and the driver seemed to be trying to do his part in the campaign. He would lean out the window and holler at scurrying pedestrians, 'Keep working at it—you'll be an angel yet.'"

Asked whether Orientals were as backward as New Yorkers in the matter of jaywalking, he said he believed not.

"Take Tokyo," he said. "there's less jaywalking there than in New York—probably because of the risk involved. The driving tends to be headlong. The walker learns that to survive he has to behave. The auto has the right of way, the driver has the advantage, and you're just not wise to walk out in front of a car.

"You should see the roads leading to the horserace track. It's considered bad luck for a horseplayer to be passed by another car on the way to the track, and it's good luck to pass another. The roads, through residential areas, become racetracks themselves. Let the walker beware."

This, however, is not the answer for New York. We're going to educate ourselves. May take a generation or so, but we'll do it.

Greyhounds, Hempfield Tapering Off

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

Phil Little 'Low' This Week

Poor Ol' Phil Fumble took it on the chin again last week after a good showing in his previous attempt. Out of nine games last week he saw six go the right way but three wrong, a couple very wrong for a drop in average from .723 to .719 on a chart of 87 right, 34 wrong. So, here he goes with what may be his last try at jumping the average: HEMPFIELD at Monessen; CHARLEROI at Brownsville; UNIONTOWN at Redstone; GERMAN at Canonsburg; JEANNETTE at Connellsville; CENTERVILLE at Beth Joint; BRADDOCK at Derry Area; Jefferson at CARMICHAELS. Phil may get another crack at the forecasting but we can't see too many remaining except for the Monessen-Brownsville encounter.

The phone rang here late Tuesday afternoon just as we were engaged in rushed conversation with a visitor and the caller asked, "How do they determine Big Ten champions who go to the Rose Bowl? . . . We replied that the team with the best season average goes but can't repeat a bowl trip two years in succession . . . "But how come Ohio State is declared champion when the Buckeyes still have a game to play and both Ohio State and Michigan State have a defeat?" . . . Catching us with our thinking caps down and our visitor becoming impatient we said, "You've got us on the spot but we'll figure out the answer and have it for you in a few minutes, so call back." . . . The return call never came but just in case the answer wasn't found, here 'tis: Ohio State has played on more Big Ten Game than the Spartans and the only OS defeat is not in Big Ten play (to Texas Christian) but Michigan State's loss is a conference defeat (Purdue), so even with a loss to Michigan Saturday, OS will have the better Big Ten record, 6-1 to 5-1.

By the way, watch for an important story to break soon on Mr. Preston concerning his sports background . . . Coach Mooney Katchmarik's Frank-Lin Midget football entry, which also posted a fine season, will be honored at the Raven's Club tonight.

Two years ago, Mrs. Marie Wilson of 1313 Graham Avenue, who teaches at Rostraver Junior High School went to school officials there and proposed a Leopardette group on the order of the troup, Nichols Cullen, local school board member is proposing here . . . Mrs. Wilson, seeing the need for some sort of extra-curricular activity for girls to equalize the program where boys can compete in scholastic sports, came up with the Leopardette idea, which emphasizes poise and posture in drills along the line of the famous Rockettes girls' drill team . . . Working with about 48 girls of the seventh, eighth and Ninth grades, she sends the gals through their paces lined up according to height for uniformity, with the drills really beginning to bear fruit in the final year . . . The girls are outfitted in in school color uniforms and make a stunning appearance . . . Mrs. Wilson advocates such programs for valley schools to "give the girls a chance to compete in an extra curricular program."

Donora's Grid Glory Days Numbered?

Donora High's football glory days appear to be numbered. Only 19 boys turned out for freshmen football practice this year. No less than eight of the boys on last year's Midget League All-Star team in Donora are enrolled in parochial schools and will be members of the sophomore class at the new Monongahela Valley Catholic High School next September . . . Rumors have connected two successful Big Five coaches with the Catholic High coaching post . . . A strong parochial high school football conference is foreseen for the valley in the not too distant future with the winner from this area meeting, perhaps, the champions of the Pittsburgh area.

Today's Sports Parade—

Wrestlers Get Tempers Up, Fans Join in Riot

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Good guys always win and bad guys always lose — or almost always—and thus it is nice to reflect today that rasslin' justice still reigns triumphant.

This fact was driven home, and into the blondined skull of a medicine man of the mat named Dr. Jerry Graham, during the latest physical culture extravaganza at Madison Square Garden. The good doctor, being a "baddie," had to visit a sawbones himself.

Seems that he got out of line and ran into (a) an outraged Latin named Antonino Rocca and (b) a riot.

Us red-blooded rasslin' fans see our clean-rasslin' heroes get the ring post real good, as any clean-living, decent, honest, heroic rassler would have.

The doctor's type B started to run down his villainly kisser and it sure excited all of us rasslin' fans who believe that clean-living, decent, honest, heroic rasslers ought to win every time anyhow. The first thing you know, us fans was throwing bottles and chairs and a few sneak punches here and there and it was great fun until the gendarmes figured even rasslers who aren't clean-living, decent, honest and heroic got a right to some protection.

By this time, fortunately, the doctor had got his come-uppance, anyhow, so it was okay. And you can bet that it was a real lesson to the doctor about how not to go around villainously belting clean-living, decent, honest and heroic rasslers.

Dusek Dropped Cold

It took those Duseks a long time to learn the same lesson. There was one night that one of the Duseks was torturing one of our clean-living, decent, honest and heroic rasslers and he won. But not for long.

As he walked out under a balcony, a fan piled up five folding chairs and dropped them—smacko—right on his villainous noggin. He didn't rassle for several weeks.

Which just goes to show you that maybe you don't believe even the clean-living, decent, honest and heroic rasslers is on the level. But us fans are, and you can bet your last dropkick on that.

And the "baddies" are going to be awful cautious around here for a while, anyhow. Because, as I said, good guys always win and bad guys always lose. Or almost always, anyhow.

One of our set, a dynamic lady known only as "Hat-Pin Mary," used to take matters into her own bad end of it every once in a while. It makes our blood broil. hands and chapeau spike and the "baddies" were always sorry, I'll tell you, when she hove into view of the apron.

Rocca Raps Doctor

So this here now Doctor Graham brought it all on himself the other night at the Garden when he stepped out of line and began to bust our pal Antonino with villainly vim and vigor. Rocca stood it just about as long as any clean-living, decent, honest, heroic rassler could. Then he takes the doctor and busts his head up against

Initial Plans Set for Local Intra-mural Cage

Plans for the Monessen Department of Recreation Basketball League were discussed at an organizational meeting of the team representatives and Director of Recreation Tom D'Errico last night.

D'Errico discussed the intramural program with representatives from Vocational, Ben Franklin and Linden elementary schools.

Rules and regulations, use of the Civic Center Gym, tentative schedule and team rosters were the main topics of discussion.

Representing Vocational were Gus Cocciolone, Harry Winstone, and Dick Kunsa; representing Ben Franklin were Frank Francia and Gerald Harter; while Linden was represented by John Ambler and Bill Tweardy.

The schedule will be released in two weeks, D'Errico stated.

Organizational meetings are planned for grades 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12, next week.

Long Home Stand Opens Season for Giants, Dodgers

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers and the San Francisco Giants, playing their first year in the Far West, will get to show off in front of Pacific Coast fans nearly every day for the first three weeks of 1958, National League schedules released today revealed.

The Giants, who will be playing in Seals Stadium with a seating capacity of only 25,000, play 22 of their first 25 games at home; the Dodgers, who may play in either 28,000 - seat Wrigley Field or the 105,000-seat Coliseum, will play 18 of their first 21 tilts on the home front.

At Dodger headquarters there was great elation over the drastically revamped schedule.

"When we won our 1955 pennant we got away to a huge lead on the home lot," said business manager Harold Parrott. "We had the same type of schedule."

There was equal exuberence in Seals Stadium, where publicity director Gary Schumacher said the schedule "suited the Giants fine."

"It will give us a chance for a great start," said Schumacher "and if we are in contention, we have a fine string of home games from Aug. 12 to Sept. 1 against St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati, Milwaukee and Los Angeles — 19 games at home in a row."

Barbero Explains Rules at RJHS

Tom Barbero, rules interpreter for the Mon Valley Board of Basketball Officials, conducted a rules clinic at Rostraver Junior High last night and lectured on the 1957-58 rules changes.

A film on basketball emphasized the changes as did a scrimmage game with Coach George Everett's Rostraver High cagers participating.

Refreshments were served by the Rostraver Junior High Cafeteria Department following the clinic attended by officials and parents of the players.

MHS Cagers Show 'Desire'—Janosik

(This is the first in a series of round-up articles on valley basketball teams as they prepare for their openers next Friday night. All teams in Section 5-A "Mon Valley Conference" and other district teams like Rostraver, West Newton, etc., will be covered here.)

"Lots of desire", that's the way Frank Janosik, Monessen High basketball coach, described the 1957-58 Greyhound basketball squad currently working out in preparation for the opening exhibition tilt with McKeesport here next Friday night.

Janosik explained that he was naturally handicapped with the football season being so drawn out due to postponementa as several of the gridders are promising cage candidates but tabbed the boys now playing as "having the will to learn."

The veteran 'Hound mentor is working with a squad of Dick DiBiaso, 6-3 senior; Joe Kurey, 6-2 senior; Charles Bill, 5-11 senior; Myron Sepitko 5-11 senior; Bill Makinen, a 6-2 junior; George Murin, a 6-1 junior; Paul Kolich a 6-3 senior; and a promising transfer students from Monongahela Paul Loines, a 6-0 sophomore, who started on the junior high team at Monongahela last year.

The Loines family formerly resided here, moved to the down-river community but have now moved back to Monessen making Liones eligible without any waiting period.

Gridders Missing

Missing for the time being (until the footabll campaign is completed) are Dan Barton, 5-11 senior; Joe Karbowsky 6-1 senior; Carl Payne 6-1 junior; Ken Bronson, 5-10 senior; and sophomores up for a first varsity look like Jimmy Lewitsky, Andy Carrollo, John Sivek and John Macik.

Ken Walters, a transfer student from Ohio, is also planning on competing in basketball but the 5-6 junior is also a member of the grid team.

"There are some boys we are working with right now but we won't mention all of them until we see how many we keep and how many we cut," Janosik stated.

Last season, rebuilding from the ground up after a fine 1955-56 campaign which saw the locals run a victory string to over 30 games in sectional competition, the Hounds slipped to a 14-8 mark.

"We hope to improve on that this season," Janosik stated, "and with certain boys coming along the way I hope they will we may spring a few surprises."

As usual the locals play a rugged exhibit card, opening with McKeesport on Nov. 29 then follows games with Greensburg, Johnstown, Uniontown, Duquesne, Farrell, Aliquippa, an Alumni game on Dec. 23 and the Movie Club Tournament games (foes announced later) on Dec. 27 and 28 before the league opener with Brownsville on Jan. 3.

The annual "big battles" with Charleroi are set for Jan. 21 at Charleroi and Feb. 18 here.

Steelers Favored By 3½ in Sunday's Packer Encounter

By UNITED PRESS

Injuries will keep at least three and possibly five stars out of Sunday's key National Football League games.

The oddsmakers, who keep a close watch on injuries, have made the Colts 6½ point choices to whip the San Francisco Forty-Niners at Baltimore. The Lions are 5½ point choices to defeat the Chicago Bears at Detroit. The Colts, Lions and Forty-Niners are tied for the Western Division lead.

The Browns are 3½ point favorites against the Los Angeles Rams at Cleveland while the New York Giants are 6½ point favorites to beat the Cards at Chicago. The Steelers are favored over the Green Bay Packers by 3½ points at Pittsburgh and the Washington Redskins are favored over the Eagles by 1½ at Philadelphia.

Grudge Game at Detroit

Detroit is in top shape to play before a capacity home crowd of more than 55,000 but the Bears will go into the "grudge" game without Harlon Hill. Hill, all league offensive end, suffered a shoulder injury during last Sunday's 29-14 loss to the Colts. He is out for the season.

Ed Meadows of the Bears started a flurry of "dirty play" charges last Dec. 16 when his tackle of Bobby Layne sent the Detroit quarterback to the sidelines with a concussion. The Bears went on to win the game and the Western Division title.

The Colts and 49ers may play without star pass receivers. Clyde Conner, 49er end, definitely is out with a shoulder injury. Jim Mutscheller, Baltimore end, may not play. He has a sprained ankle.

Tackle Bob St. Clair and Bob Holladay, a defensive back, also are out of the Forty-Niner lineup.

Los Angeles will play Cleveland without Will Sherman, one of its best defensive backs. He has a dislocated elbow.

Webster in Hospital

Alex Webster, New York halfback may not play at Chicago. He still is in the hospital with an ear infection which kept him out of last week's 13-0 victory over the Eagles.

Norb Hecker, veteran Washington safety man, won't play against the Eagles because of a twisted knee.

Bill Michael, Pittsburgh guard who has been out with a broken leg bone, will be in uniform and may play against the Packers. Willie Lee, Steeler tackle, has a pulled tendonbut will play.

This week's selections: Lions (5-3) over Bears (3-5), Colts (5-3) over Forty-Niners (5-3), Browns (6-1-1) over Rams (4-4), Giants (6-2) over Cards (2-5), Packers (2-6) over Steelers (4-3), Redskins (2-5-1) over Eagles (2-6).

Five GP Bowlers Post 500 Series

Five bowlers rolled 500 series games in Grand Parlor City League action last night as Doc Daugherty, Joe Rusak, Steve Hyrchak, Joe Koget and Ed Kroskie hit the magic figure, Daugherty showing the way with a 572.

Rusak had a 550, Hyrchak a 532, Koget a 529, and Kroskie a 514. Other top scorers were George Curry, Frank Santoro, Harry Myers, Skeetz Jones, Sage Salay and Irish Flanagan.

Standings — Cousins 25-5, Elks 17-13, Cro-Ams 15-15 and Aquarium 3-27.

Rivals 'Polishing' Attacks for Game Here Saturday

Coach Armand Niccolai of the Monessen Greyhounds and Bill Abraham of the Hempfield High Spartans began putting the finishing touches on drills for their battle here Saturday afternoon.

Originally scheduled to play on Oct. 4, the two rivals had to wait nearly two months before getting together. In fact, at one time there was talk of cancelling the game.

The situation was righted, however, when Johnstown cancelled a game here (due to the flu) and the Hempfield contest was recarded from the Hempfield stadium to Monessen Memorial Stadium. The two teams will meet next year at Hempfield instead of vice-versa. This arrangement was made to give the locals a representative home schedule as only three games have been played here out of an original schedule of five tilts.

No Word on Brownies

Brownsville also asked for a postponement earlier in the season due to the flu and as yet nothing is definite on the game.

Saturday's game is the first afternoon game, except for holiday tilts, played in the valley in years between two AA teams.

Both coaches report their squads in "pretty good" shape. Niccolai will probably call on Guibourdanche and O'Toole at ends, Aldrich and Allen at tackles, Pauline and Throop at guards, Churan and Gigliotti at center with Barton at quarterback, Bronson and Karbowsky at halves and Rattay at fullback.

Abraham will call upon E. Grant and Hayes at ends, Wile and Pellis at tackles, Eicher and Serenka at guard, Behanna at center with Johns at quarterback, Franklin and high-scoring Sonny Keuel at halves and Gaudi at fullback.

Tickets on Sale Again Tonight

Reserved seat tickets for the Hempfield-Monessen game will be on sale tonight at the high school gym office from 7 until 9 o'clock, MHS Faculty Manager of Athletics Armand Mori stated this morning.

Johnstown season tickets will be honored for the Hempfield battle, he added.

Knickerbockers Seek Second Straight Win

By UNITED PRESS

Where Are They Now?

By United Press

THE FOUR HORSEMEN

"Outlined against the blue-gray October sky, the Four Horsemen rode again. In dramatic lore they are known as Famine, Pestilence, Destruction and Death. These are only aliases. Their real names are Stuhldreher, Miller, Crowley and Layden."

So wrote the late Grantland Rice about Notre Dame's famed backfield after the Irish had licked Army in 1924 en route to a 10-0 season and the National Football championship.

Whatever happened to the Four Horsemen? Three of the four were successful coaches but now, 33 years later, all are out of football . . . quarterback Harry Stuhldreher is a public relations vice president for U. S. Steel at Pittsburgh . . . left half Jim Crowley is a partner in a Scranton, Pa., public relations firm and chairman of the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission. . . right half Don Miller is a prominent attorney at Cleveland . . . fullback Elmer Layden is an executive with the National Carloading Co., a transportation firm, in Chicago.

WPIAL Contenders in Action

Raiders, New Ken Tonight

By UNITED PRESS

Uniontown, one of four WPIAL Class AA contenders plays at Redstone tonight as the deadline for regular league games approaches.

New Kensington, another Class AA contender, hosts Turtle Creek.

Clairton and Wilkinsburg, the other two contenders, have completed their schedules and are awaiting the outcome of games which involve pick-up points in the Gardner Point System, Clairton has been assured a berth in the playoffs at Pitt Stadium Nov. 30, and its interest in the remaining games is merely to see whom its opponent will be.

Wilkinsburg needs either a Jeannette victory over Connellsville or a Hempfield win over Monessen to qualify.

The deadline for games involving the Gardner system is Saturday night at which time the contestants in the playoffs in all classes of WPIAL will be determined.

In Class A competition, contender Glassport hosts Wilmerding tonight. Defending champion Braddock, the other Class A contender, will play at Derry Area Friday.

In Class B play, Centerville, one of seven contenders, plays at Bethlehem Joint Friday and Oakmont, another contender, plays at Arnold Saturday.

The other Class B contenders, all of who have finished their schedules are Avella, Evans City, Montour, Sewickley Township, and West Greene.

'Trader' Lane in Business With Offer for Kuenn

NEW YORK (UP)—Frank Lane, Cleveland's indefatigable new general manager, thrust himself suddenly into the Detroit trading picture by making the Tigers "a firm offer" for shortstop Harvey Kuenn.

Lane no sooner arrived in St. Louise from Havana Wednesday night when he contacted Detroit general manager Johnny McHale, who had just completed a 13-player deal with Kansas City.

"How about KUENN?" Lane opened the conversation.

"Make me an offer," replied McHale. "I don't say I'll take it, but I guarantee you I'll consider it."

Lane told the United Press by telephone from St. Louis that he made an offer to McHale and that the Detroit general manager promised an answer "within a few days."

While Lane did not reveal which players he offered the Tigers, it is known they would like to have back first baseman Vic Wertz, who played for them from 1947 until 1952.

Kotora Rolls 563 In Open Hearth

Mike Kotara broke the three-game total record with a 563 in Open Hearth bowling action last night.

Maykovich, Weddell and Van Marter copped the league matches.

Andy Hornak had a 220 for the best single game mark followed by John Zdilla, John Dacko, Jim Baker, John Cenkner and Julio Contino.

Standings — Maykovich 25-11, Weddell 23-13, Balmers 18-18, Van Marters 15-21, Whitehouse 14-22 and Minardi 13-23.

BOWIE, Md., (UP)—Bowie Race Track has announced a program of 10 stakes races, headed by the $100,000 John B. Campbell Handicap, for its 40-day meeting beginning Feb. 12, 1958. The big handicap is scheduled for the final day March 29.

Gavilan Wins But Foe Raps 'Keed'

CHICAGO (UP) Former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan avenged a defeat with his 105th professional triumph, but his unimpressed victim discounted the outcome because "he's going downhill."

"Hes a better fighter than he was when I beat him a year ago," Bostons Walter Byars said. "but he's still going down. He's better just because of determination to prove to himself that he's not washed up."

Byars, who lost a 10 round decision to the former champion Wednesday night, said he thought "I won the fight, but the judges I guess didn't go to the same school I did, so he got the decision.

"I proved I'm a better fighter now," Galvan said, "But it wasn't a good fight I know when I fight a good fight, and this wasn't. He kept covering up so I couldn't hit him."

Green Bay Seen 'Fired Up' For Steeler Tilt

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Green Bay Packers are expected to play a "fired up" game against the Pittsburgh Steelers because of rumors that Packers coach Lisle Blackbourn will be replaced.

Steeler coach Buddy Parker said today he was sorry the rumor was making the rounds prior to the Sunday game. The result of such a rumor is usually to stir up a team into greater activity.

Green Bay goes into the game with a 2-6 record in National Football League Western Conference play.

An article published Wednesday in a Chicago paper said Clark Shaughnessy, former Pitt mentor, will replace Blackbourn. Shaughnessy presently is defensive coach for the Chicago Bears.

A Green Bay spokesman said four players were doubtful starters for the game because of injuries. They were center Jim Ringo, tackle Norman Masters, guard Norm Amundsen and linebacker Sam Palumbo.

'New' Dick Stuart May Help Pirates In 1958 Season

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A "reformed" Dick Stuart should be given definite consideration in the Pittsburgh Pirates' plans for 1958, the National League club was advised today.

Stuart, whose indefinite attitude as a defensive player overshadowed his hitting ability, is leading the Dominican Republic Winter League with a .386 batting average. Stuart is playing first base with the Aguilas Cinaenas team and has established a new league record with six home runs.

Manager Frank Oceak of the Aguilas team informed Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown not to overlook Stuart in the Pittsburgh plans for next season.

Oceak shifted Stuart from the outfield to first base and reported the slugger has won the applause of the fans.

Branch Rickey Jr., head of the Pirate scouting system, saw Stuart recently and said the slugger's "attitude has changed and that he has shown improvement as a fielder."

Stuart's indifference as a defensive player cost him a chance to play in the majors last season. In 1955 Stuart hit 66 home runs, a Class A Western League record when he played with the Lincoln (Neb.) Chiefs. His 66 total was the third highest home run total for a season in organized baseball.

Many persons in Ethiopia wear loose cotton tunics, largely for religious reasons.

Stan, Now 37, Set for Three, Four Seasons

By STAN MOCKLER

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Stan Musial, the St. Louis Cardinals indispensable "man," celebrated his 37th birthday today.

And the slugging first baseman viewed the sands running out on a great baseball career with the optimism produced by his seventh National League batting crown.

Before starting his .351 season, highest in his last six, Stan was very cautious about future prospects. He was operating, he said at the time, on a "year to year" basis.

But now he figures he's good for two, maybe three more good seasons.

"Every man in the game has his own playing deadline," he said. "each goal you set moves your sights up a notch when it is reached. I remember a time when it seemed I would have a tough time getting to my 2,000th base hit. Now I need only 43 for 3,000."

An Exclusive Group

Musial's latest goal, which he hopes to reach sometime next May, would make him the eighth player in history and the first since Paul Waner in 1942 to reach such a total.

Musial, who suffered a bone chip and muscle tear in his left shoulder when he swung too violently on Aug. 20, returned to the lineup after the injury with renewed vigor. He showed little loss of form in batting .500 the last 10 games.

But he explained that much of his efficiency then was due to a necessary cutdown on his big swing, which led to his stroking the ball to left field more often.

Trainer Bob Bauman has an exercising and conditioning program ready for him and Musial does not expect too much trouble from the injury.

A Sacred Cow

The Cards' publicity director, Jim Toomey, figured up a storm of statistics in honor of Stan's birthday and the net result showed he has 21 National League records and shares 13. He has two major league marks and part of 11 others.

This, along with other factors, probably accounted for instant and unanimous vetoes on the part of the Cards' top brass when former General Manager Frank Lane planned to trade Musial. "He's a sacred cow," Lane said at the time. But it was said without malice for Lane later called him "the man who carries the team on his back."

Much of the credit for the Cards' strong runner-up finish this season must be given to him.

Stan's confidence in the future includes his ball club, too.

"We'll do all right next year," he said, "if Ken Boyer and Wally Moon can have a big year at bat, our punch can take us a long way."

Line Pressure Aids Colt Pass Defense Play

BALTIMORE, Md., (UP)—How does a team that had one of the weakest pass defenses in the National Football League suddenly develop a strong air defense?

The Baltimore Colts intercepted five passes by the Chicago Bears last Sunday, one for a touchdown while another led to a touchdown. But secondary coach Charley Winner said "we didn't change our pass defense in the least."

Winner said the best pass defense in pro ball is only as good as the pressure put on the passer by the defensive line. Baltimore had that pressure against the Bears and the receivers were Johnny-on-the-spot when the Bears hurried passers threw the ball.

Winner said the best example was on the first of two interceptions by rookie Milt Davis.

"Harlan Hill had Davis beat," Winner said, "but Davis took the ball right out of Hill's hands. Our line made that possible. The Bear quarterback didn't throw the ball when Hill made his angle - out move. Our line caused that delay and when the quarterback did let go, Davis had recovered and was in position to intercept.

Cage Star Dead

STAMFORD, Conn., (UP)—Aud Brindley, basketball scoring champion of the Ivy League for Dartmouth in the 1943-44 season and later a New York Knickerbocker player, died Tuesday night after a month's illness. He was 33. He is survived by his widow and two children.

Indians' Caffie Top IL Batter

MONTREAL (UP) — Outfielder Joe Caffie, now with the Cleveland Indians, today was certified as the International League batting champion for 1957 on the strength of his .330 batting average with the Buffalo Bisons.

Although Caffie led the league in hitting, veteran Luke Easter, also of Buffalo, paced the circuit in runs batted in, home runs and total bases, according to figures released by the IL office here.

Despite his .279 average, Easter drove in 128 runs, clouted 40 homers and hit for 300 total bases. Big Luke also drew the most walks, 100, and was high man in strikeouts with 140.

Martin Unhappy Over Trade to Detroit Tigers

KANSAS CITY, Mo., (UP) — Billy Martin, chagrined at the trade that switched him from the Kansas City Athletics to the Detroit Tigers, said today the deal should include some money for Martin.

Describing the trade as one that "got everybody happy but me," the infielder admitted it was "great to be a contender again" but insisted that the Athletics should "fork over some dough to me."

"This may be pretty strong talk for a .251 hitter," said Martin, "but they say six clubs were after me and if that's so, I must be pretty valuable."

The fiery Martin, once Casey Stengel's "boy" of the New York Yankees, declared "everybody in the majors is worth at least the $10,000 waiver price and if I was the key man in the trade that's made everybody happy, I think I ought to get something, too."

George Selkirk, the A's play personell director, said the club was under no obligation to pay Martin in the trade.

"It's in his contract that he's got to play in any town he's contracted to," said Selkirk.

Sugar Ray Meets With Tax Officials

CHICAGO (UP) — Former Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson was scheduled to meet federal tax officials in Washington today in hopes of settling income tax problems, it was learned.

Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, said Wednesday night that Robinson had received $107,000 of his purse for the recent fight in which he lost his middleweight crown to Carmen Basilio.

Settlement of the tax problem, Gibson said, might clear the way for a Robinson-Basilio title rematch.

Robinson's entire purse had been tied up by a federal tax lien until Wednesday, Gibson said.

Pitt, Penn State Speeding Up Drills For 'Big' Battle

By UNITED PRESS

Pitt and Penn State swung into high gear today in preparation for their game at Pittsburgh Saturday —regarded by both teams as the "big" game of the year.

Pitt coach John Michelosen conditioned his players for the anticipated cold weather at Pitt Stadium by sending them through a rugged session in near freezing temperatures.

Rip Engle, who as coach of the Lions has won all but one of the Pitt - Penn State encounters at the stadium since 1951, said his team would conduct final practice sessions at University Park Friday.

Engle said he would not trust to luck that the weather in Pittsburgh would be good enough on Friday for his squad's final workout.

The Nittany Lions coach said sophomore quarterback Richie Lucas definitely will start for State.

Al Jacks, of Pittsburgh, out of action for the past few games because of a shoulder separation, went through a light workout today and probably will be available for spot duty Saturday.

End Paul North, of Baden, Pa., described by Engle as the "best second string terminal" in college football, may not be available Saturday. North suffered a slight concussion in last week's game with Holy Cross. He alternates with Les Walters at left end.

Michelosen said he still remained hopeful that right tackle Jim McCusker, sidelined with an injured wrist, will be able to play for the Panthers against State.

Michelosen, whose team enters the game with a four-game losing streak, was expected to go "all out" to beat Penn State and the Miami Hurricanes in the Orange Bowl on Dec. 6 to chalk up a season record approaching the respectable.

A crowd of 50,000 was expected to witness the game Saturday. Extremely cold weather, snow or rain probably would hold the crowd well below that figure, however.

Sporstmen's Corner—

Bruin Pennsylvania's Big Game Attraction

Each year the dream of bagging a large black bear lures thousands upon thousands of sport men into the vast stretches of mountain woodlands still to be found in populous, industrial Pennsylvania. Many hunters consider the bear the most desirable of all big game prizes, and the sportsman who takes one of the occasional cinnamon-colored bruins is doubly rewarded.

This year the state's week-long bear season opens at 7 a. m. November 25 and ends at 5 p. m. November 30. Most of the wool-clad hunters will concentrate on the rugged, forested northern counties, homeland of most of most of these game animals. These sportsmen are the hardy type, because driving or tracking bears over rough terrain and through swamplands if for the young and the well-conditioned. Their prayer will be for a light tracking snow. Bears are more easily seen against a white background, which also provides a better opportunity to judge the size of the animal, therefore reduces the likelihood of shooting a cub. Deep snow makes travel afoot more difficult and, if combined with cold weather, it often causes bears to hibernate early and thus limits shooting opportunities.

The black bear population in Pennsylvania has not apparently declined in recent years. In the one-week season of 1956 the reported legal bear kill in the state was 335, which was about an average harvest.

In the 41 seasons the black bear kill has been recorded in the Commonwealth (there was no season in 1934) 17,698 legal bears have been taken. The largest of record weighed 633 pounds before it was hog dressed. Many bears over 300 pounds, some 400 pounders and an occasional one weighing in the neighborhood of 500 pounds, have been taken in the state since 1915, when the record was instituted.

Until recent years the prime bear range lay in the counties of Potter, McKean, Warren, Forest, Elk, Cameron, Clinton, Lycoming, Sullivan, Tioga, and Bradford. But in the last few years the range has spread. Sizeable kills have been made in Clarion, Jefferson, Clearfield, and Centre Counties, to the South. The bear bag in the following eastern counties, too, has greatly increased: Pike, Monroe, Wayne, Lackawanna, Wyoming, and Luzerne.

Habitat Change—

It is thought likely that the change in habitat that occurred with the growth of the timber probably contributed to the spread-out of the animals. But in any year that nuts, fruits and other fall foods are not available in quantity the males set out in quest of sustenance that will add to their body fats, on which they must depend for heat and energy during the cold months. In years like the present one, when the mast crop is fair to poor in some northern counties, hunters may therefore find bears in unusual numbers outside the areas usually considered prime range for the animals. Several Game Protectors have reported "bears are on the move".

The season for hunting wild turkeys, grouse and squirrels ends November 23, so dyed-in-the-wool bear hunters will not be bothered by small game hunters in the "big woods."

Bear hunters are admonished: Identify the animal definitely before you shoot. Control your impulse to fire until you are sure you see a bear you will be proud to take home.

In Pennsylvania a legal bear is one over one year old. An individual hunter may take one bear in the season; a party of three may take two. Automatic, semi-automatic or auto-loading guns of any kind are prohibited. Pump shotguns firing rifled slugs or pumpkin balls, also high-powered rifles, may be loaded to capacity for bear hunting. Firearms discharging .22 or .25 rimfire cartridges are prohibited. A roster is required when five or more persons hunt together or in any way cooperated in hunting bears.

Mystery Deepens in Wisconsin

WAUTOMA, Wis. (UP)—Embittered area residents today demanded that authorities press their investigation of a killer of two women to determine if he is a mass killer or a grave robber.

Bachelor farmer Ed Gein, 51, who decorated his Plainfield, Wis., home with 10 skulls, confessed the slayings of two middle-aged women Wednesday.

Residents feared Waushara County authorities would hustle Gein off to a mental institution before they could learn where he had accumulated the other skulls.

Gein, who has been held in lieu of $10,000 bond on a technical charge of larceny, was expected to be charged today with the murder of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58, a Plainfield storekeeper whose butchered body was found in his woodshed Sunday.

Admitted Other Slaying

Gein, who was questioned for more than 10 hours Wednesday at state crime laboratory headquarters in Madison, Wis., also admitted the slaying of Mary Hogan, 54, a Pine Grove, Wis., tavern operator who vanished about three years ago.

Director Charles Wilson of the crime lab refused to reveal details of the slayings.

Gein's confession to the second slaying raised fears that he may have been the mass murderer However, Gein claimed he killed only the two women and got the other skulls from robbing fresh graves on moonlit nights.

No Details Given

Wilson's statement did not mention the source of the other human heads and face masks. But local authorities appeared convinced that Gein was telling the truth about the grave robberies and made no plans to dig up any of the snow-covered graves for investigation.

District Attorney Earl Kileen said he was waiting for the ballistics report on the weapon believed used to kill Mrs. Worden before filing murder charges. Authorities said they would "not accept a confession from an insane man."

The Perryopolis Woman's Christian Temperance Union held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Arthur Evans, Perryopolis on Wednesday afternoon. It was a roll call and membership dues meeting.

Mrs. Evans is president of the club, and a short business session was in her charge. Devotions were held, and a Thanksgiving program was presented by Mrs. Emma Wilkey, Mrs. Lavada Blair and Mrs. Harrison Evans.

The hostess served a lunch. The December meeting will be at the home of Selma Pearson, Perryopolis, and each member is asked to bring a gift for the Veterans Hospital.

Men! Don't Ridicule Women on Fashions

By ALFRED LEECH

CHICAGO (UP)—Custom tailor Lawrence Pucci Jr. says men who ridicule feminine fashions should take a look at themselves.

The Ivy League look was bad enough, said Pucci, president of the Association of Custom Tailors and Designers of America.

But now comes the "Edwardian look."

This consists of narrow cuffless pants with belted backs and narrow jackets with cuffs on the sleeves. A fashion note proclaims that these duds will be worn by "style conscious men as an assertion of their individuality."

Pucci Cries "Ludicrous"

"Ludicrous," said Pucci, who makes clothes for some of America's best dressed males.

"Here we are in the dawn of the space age, with Sputniks circling the earth, and we're digging back into the fashion attic to don grouse hunting suits.

"Clothes like these should be worn against a backdrop of castles and manor houses."

He conceded that Ivy League garb might be permissible for "boys in school," especially if the school has ivy - covered walls or Gothic architecture.

But a man stepping into a turbo-jet plane or a new sports car looks foolish in "horse and carriage raiment," Pucci said.

Imitate Diamond Jim

"Surrounded by modernity, we're trying to dress like Diamond Jim Brady or Sherlock Holmes," he said. "It's an idiotic affectation."

There is a "crying need for original thought" in men's attire, Pucci said.

The ideal suit, he said, could be worn anywhere, regardless of season, climate or occasion.

"A businessman who starts his day in Chicago or New York may well finish it in San Francisco, Miami, or Toronto," he said. "So his clothing should be that adaptable.

"He should be able to attend the theater one night, a cocktail party the next afternoon and a prize fight that night, wearing the same suit."

But before we reach this ideal, Pucci said, we may have to shed some foibles like neckties, lapels and shoes that lace in the archaic manner of a Roman sandal.

Becky Nasser Is Honor Guest

Becky Nasser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Nasser of Perryopolis, was the honored guest Sunday at a party to celebrate her first birthday.

A birthday cake was the centerpiece for the little guests table. Games were played and prizes won by Leslie England, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard England of Perryopolis, and Cindy Lee Rolison of Lock Four.

Becky received many lovely gifts. Attending the party were the following: Susan Bell, Leslie England, Sammie Nasser, Cindy Lee and Robin Ann Rolison, Scotty, Michael and Sherry Nasser.

Hernando Cortez established the first sugar mill on the North American continent in Mexico in 1535.

The early education of James Watt, famous British mechanical engineer, was hindered because ill health kept him out of school.

Varied Sauces Make Broccoli More Appetizing

Broccoli — very little known as a vegetable, at least in this country, until the last two decades — suddenly became fashionable and with hollandaise sauce as an accompaniment, was a popular although expensive item on restaurant menus

Some time later it began to be seen in small vegetable markets and earned a place on the home table The flavor is not unlike that of cauliflower but perhaps a little more delicate The color is appealing, and broccoli is so much in demand now that in its season it is often chosen.

One can obtain it throughout most of the year, as the flowerets are frozen after packaging Neither broccoli nor cauliflower can be successfully canned as the process affects the texture and also the natural color In the home kitchen folks usually cook broccoli in a large amount of boiling water in order to better preserve the natural color

Some type of sauce is almost invariably served with this vegetable The choice ranges from lemon-flavored butter to a cheese, sour cream or the always-favored hollandaise sauce

BROCCOLI WITH VINAIGRETTE SAUCE

1 teaspoon salt
Paprika
Pepper
½ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon mustard
1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
¼ cup olive oil
1 tablespoon minced pickle
1 tablespoon minced olives
1 teaspoon chopped onions
Cooked broccoli

Mix ingredients, except broccoli and beat well Serve with cold cooked broccoli arranged in bundles and garnished with pimientos.

WITH TWO SMALL PLUMP-BREASTED TURKEYS — products of this modern age — Thanksgiving feasters get just the part they want — and plenty of that old-fashioned bread stuffing which traditionally is rather dry but heartily seasoned.

Turkey Stuffing Is Tasty Made With Hard Bread

Turkey for Thanksgiving! Naturally, this is our choice. Even those of us who pride ourselves on not being sentimental take a secret pride in the fact that the turkey was a contribution of the New World to the Old

Edith Barber

Before the turkey reached Europe, we find elaborate accounts of feast-day dinners where the plumage of the peacock graced the tables. Perhaps the meat of that bird was enjoyed, although it is tough and has very little flavor. The wild turkeys of American origin were less succulent than those produced after the fowls had been domesticated.

Nowadays turkeys are specially bred for our tables Whether they are large or small the breasts are particularly heavy and supply much white meat which seems to be favored by many persons Actually the darker meat is often just as tender and has a little more natural flavor

Whether a turkey is large or small, it is usually stuffed The base of the stuffing is generally crumbled white bread, although in some sections of the country — particularly the South — corn bread is preferred. A comparatively dry stuffing is the general choice, although the same recipe may be used for a moist stuffing by merely adding a little liquid to the basic recipe In addition to poultry seasoning, a blend of a number of herbs a bit of sage or thyme may be added if you are particularly fond of these flavors

ROASTING SMALL TURKEYS

Choose small turkeys — about 5 to 8 pounds Brush skin with melted fat, and place breast up on rack in shallow roasting pan Lay fat-moistened thin cloth large enough to drape down the sides) over top of each turkey, or place a loose tent of aluminum foil over each bird Baste several times with drippings or fat while roasting in slow over (325 degrees F) For 5-to-6-pound stuffed bird, roast 3 to 3¾ hours For 6-to8-pound bird, 3¾ to 4½ hours The turkey is done when drumstick twists readily out of the thigh joint.

FLUFFY BREAD STUFFING

1½-pound loaf of bread, 2 to 4 days old
¼ cup minced onion
¾ to 1 pound butter or margarine
¼ to ½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon or more salt
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning

Cut bread into ½-inch cubes, and place in large mixing bowl Cook onion in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine until softened but not browned Cut remaining butter into ½-inch dice Combine onion, diced butter and seasonings with the bread, and toss together Stuff bird and close opening with skewers and lacing string Truss Yield: Stuffing for two 8-pound birds.

Note: If any stuffing is leftover, it may be placed in the roasting pan around the bird for the last ½ hour.

Tasty Recipe

SWEET-SOUR RIBS

Spareribs
Garlic dressing

Marinate spareribs in dressing for 1 hour Remove from the dressing and place on broiler rack. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F) about 40 minutes, turning occasionally and basting with dressing If ribs are not thoroughly browned, place under broiler to finish.

Highway Is Boon To Boston

By DAVID PICKMAN

BOSTON (UP)—It's shaped like a scimitar, or a fishhook.

It has no name, only a number.

It's the best thing that has happened to metropolitan Boston since the bean got on the plate with the codfish.

The answer to this riddle? Ask any Bostonian and he'll tell you: "It's Route 128."

This two - ply limited access highway around Boston was started in May, 1946. The last short link of the 63.9-mile artery is just now being completed to link it with a speedway from Boston to Cape Cod.

Immediate, tangible results to date include:

—200 million dollars in new industry.

—At least 15,000 new jobs.

—15 multi-million-dollar industrial "parks" and more coming.

—Five major shopping centers.

—A new face for eastern Massachusetts.

—Property values have soared, both for housing and industrial and business sites.

Values Skyrocket

One acre of rocky meadow or second-growth wooded hillside that used to fetch $50 to $100 now goes for $5,000 to $10,000.

Total property valuation of Needham in the southwestern sector of the highway has jumped from 30 million dollars to 110 million dollars. Lexington to the north leaped from 26 million dollars to 100 million and rural Burlington increased its worth seven times in the spectacular land boom.

Regional planners warn that results here cannot be counted on as proof of a magic formula. Route 128 was built at the "right" moment. As a matter of fact, the aim of the planners was simple—to speed north-south traffic by going around Boston's ancient cowpath streets and the clogged density of the suburbs.

This plan was born at a time when our wartime industry, mostly electronics, was hungry for space.

Road Is Toll-Free

The new road, toll - free, now links new industry with scores of new real estate developments built in the once-rural periphery of the dense metropolitan area. It has brought the labor supply within easy commuting range from any point on the highway strip.

The "golden arc," as one publicist described it, has brought headaches, too. Communities which did not reap the industrial harvest nevertheless found their "bedroom population" and "war baby" population mushrooming.

Low-cost housing, and consequently, low per-family tax revenue, flooded classrooms and forced construction of huge new school buildings. The building and teacher salary bills drove tax rates sky high, often as much as 60 per cent higher than before the boom.

But the advantages far outweigh the hardships that are incidental to any form of economic progress. The road has proved to be a new frontier for progress, the basis for a new way of life.

Flood Damage At $805,890

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Forests and Waters Department said today the floods in the Pittsburgh area last February caused $805,890 worth of damage.

Department Secretary Maurice K. Goddard said the final report on the Feb. 9-11 flood showed the largest segment of loss was in suspended income and wages due to inability of businesses to maintain operations.

Goddard said there were 760 dwellings flooded, in addition to almost 5,000 acres of farmland. He credited warnings issued by the Federal-State Flood Forecasting Service with preventing any loss of life.

"You should have heard my mother-in-law!"

Kane Water Co. To Boost Rates

HARRISBURG (UP) — Spring Water Co., Kane, will increase rates of 1,908 consumers in that McKean County borough an estimated $14,000 on Dec. 1.

The Public Utility Commission, which granted the boost, said all rates except those for public fire protection service will be raised 20 per cent. The firm said it needed the additional revenue to earn an amount more nearly approaching a fair return on its investment.

About 2,000 years ago, the earliest known slot machine was used to sell holy water in Egyptian temples.

Senate Probers Want Records

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate subpenas today to force Midwest Teamsters locals under James R. Hoffa's control to hand over records on selection of delegates to the union's recent convention.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy charged that 75 per cent of all delegates to the October convention which elected Hoffa union president were chosen illegally.

Kennedy disclosed that only a few of the 400 locals in Hoffa's Midwestern Conference have complied with the committee's request for full data on how each unit selected and financed its convention delegation.

More than half the Teamster locals throughout the rest of the country have replied to the request, he said. Almost all the Western Conference locals responded, he said, as did most of those in the Eastern Conference. The information was due Nov. 15.

Kennedy said the committee is drawing up subpenas for the records from 40 Midwestern locals. Data from other locals will be subpenaed when committee experts have completed studying these, he said.

He also told newsmen the committee has started drafting legislative suggestions to submit with a report to Congress in January on the committee's work to date.

Committee chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said in a speech in Little Rock, Ark., Wednesday that he expected the next session of Congress to crack down on crooked labor leaders.

Polluted Air Cited

NEW YORK (UP)—Dr. Leonard Greenburg, New York city commissioner of Air Pollution Control, said today that city air pollution from gasoline and diesel exhaust fumes is apparently a major factor in causing not only lung cancer but other pulmonary diseases.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Mike Saflin, who died seven years ago today, November 21, 1950.
He is gone but not forgotten
And as dawns another year
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the world is healed.
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed
Sadly missed by Wife, Sons, Daughter and Grandchildren.

Top Americans To Be Included In Wax Museum

WASHINGTON (UP) — Just about everyone who's anybody will be there: Christopher Columbus, Harry Truman, Robert E. Lee, Herbert Hoover.

They'll all be part of the new National Historical Waxworks Museum scheduled to open next February in the nation's capital.

Moreover, museum general manager Earl Dorfman said today the museum plans to make up historical figures on order as a sideline—even unhistorical figures. You too can have a life-size, lifelike plastic figure of your favorite president. Or even one of your mother-in-law.

The museum will feature 14 historical tableaux beginning with Columbus discovering America and ending with the Yalta conference.

There also will be a hall of great Americans. Among the great Americans will be Hoover, Truman, Thomas Edison and Henry Ford.

Dorfman said all the figures are made with a secret vinyl plastic-wax formula "after considerable research."

"They even feel alive," he said.

Big Staff in Soviet Embassy At Mexico City

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate investigators revealed testimony today saying 900 persons staff the Russian Embassy in Mexico City to direct Communist penetration of South America.

The testimony was given the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee recently by Dr. Vladimir Poremsky, president of NTS, an anti-Communist Russian underground organization based in West Germany.

He also said that 500 persons are employed in the Russian Embassy in Indonesia—a country in which the Reds have made stunning advances lately.

Subcommittee investigators called on convicted atom spies David Greenglass and Harry Gold in their prison cells at the Lewisburg, Pa., federal reformatory today while the subcommittee opened hearings in Philadelphia.

Chairman James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) said his group wants to find out if Communist activity south of the border threatens the United States.

The embassy is the "headquarters of the operation for the whole of South America," Poremsky said. "It can be concluded because while Mexico . . . is not a very big country, the embassy staff is 900 people."

Weather? Well!

WAHPETON, N.D., (UP)—With refreshing candor, the Junior Chamber of Commerce described how it plans to go about extolling North Dakota's "beautiful" weather. On nice days, they'll praise it. When a blizzard hits, "we'll shut up until it blows over," an official said.

Young Newsman Claims Algerian 'Freedom Army' Is not Phantom

By LUIS EZQUERECOCHA

WITH THE REBEL ARMY IN ALGERIA (UP) — France is not fighting a phantom army here.

The Algerian "freedom army" is a well-trained, tightly-organized, well-equipped and dedicated force.

I know, for I've spent six weeks with this army. I can report this army is determined to turn North Africa into another Indochina if France does not meet its demands for total independence.

I lived with Algerian soldier in several of their ever - moving bases, ate and slept with them in their training camps and rode with them on long, bone - bruising camel patrols.

Unlike musical comedy sheiks, these men wear no flowing turbans. In fact, turbans are against regulations. Their uniforms are American-type olive drab, their headgear garrison caps or the wide-brimmed "ANZAC" hat worn by Australian and New Zealand troops in World War II.

Non-Shaver Punished

They are clean - shaven except for flowing mustaches, a sign of virility. A few have permission to wear beards. But the slacker who hasn't and doesn't shave is punished. He must kneel for two hours, hands behind his back, nose pressed hard against a wall.

These soldiers, who form the National Algerian Liberation Front (FLN), consider themselves more than just an army. They are part of a combined army - government headed by a single unified command.

Operating under the supreme command of the FLN, the civil organization is charged with administration, tax collection, public health and registration.

Each of the six provinces is commanded by a colonel. Provinces are divided into zones and these, in turn, are divided into regions. Regions are broken down into sectors commanded by a lieutenant and his political counterpart.

Each sector consists of six companies and each company of three sections with 30 men in each. The section is the basic unit of the Algerian army. I lived and traveled with a section from Colomb-Bechar.

These units are in continuous contact with each other by walkie-talkie. For each sector there is a roving doctor and health squad and hidden away in some secret spot is a modern hospital. I wasn't taken there.

Training Between Patrols

Between patrols and skirmishes with the French, days are spent in rugged training. There is a weekly political orientation class. The FLN gives allowances to families of soldiers where needed, but the men themselves receive no pay.

My first taste of desert warfare came when I accompanied 10 soldiers on a long camel trip into the desert. The mission was to mine the key rail line from Oran to Colomb.

But after three hours of swaying through the black night on our camels, we halted. "The French are ahead," someone whispered.

We dismounted, forced the camels to their knees in a circle and gagged them with blankets.

I was ordered to stay with the camels and one soldier stayed with me. The rest moved forwar. It was pitch black. The only thing I could see were fire-fly flicks of light on the horizon. These were the lights of French trucks. Later, I was told this French convoy consisted of 150 vehicles.

After the soldiers returned, they told me they stole behind the outposts and put mines in the path of the convoy. As we slid away into the night, I heard muffled explosions.

"There are some trucks that won't go any farther," a soldier told me.

This was a typical encounter in today's desert warfare. There are few pitched battles. There is much grim, nerve-wracking guerrilla in-fighting.

Allergies To Drugs Problems

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Frequently in the post I've stressed the value of skin tests in determining certain allergies.

In the case of airborne pollens, molds and even in some instances of food allergy, these skin tests work very well.

Drug allergy, however, is something else again. Skin tests have relatively little value in diagnosing allergy to non-protein drugs.

Oh, in certain cases, the tests will produce reactions all right. And if a positive reaction does appear, it indicates the person is highly sensitive to that particular drug.

But in many, many cases no reaction appears, and this does not necessarily mean that this particular person is not allergic to that specific drug. In short, a negative reaction does not mean there is no allergy.

For contact dermatitis caused by certain medications, the patch tests have some value. In this type of skin test, the suspected drug is placed on the unbroken skin and permitted to remain there for a minimum of 24 hours.

Yet, even in these cases, a negative reaction does not always mean you are not allergic to the drug. Besides, in some cases, the mere testing of the drug may bring on an attack.

How, then, can you and your physician determine whether you are allergic to specific drugs?

Well, if either you or your doctor have good reason to suspect you are allergic to a certain drug, generally that's enough to indicate it should be avoided.

About the only other way of making sure, as far as I can see, is to try small doses cautiously. It's sort of a trial-and-error method, but in many cases this is the only way a drug can be tested for allergic reactions.

At any rate, the final decision as to whether you should have a specific drug should be left to your doctor.

Question and Answer

H. C.: I have been nearsighted all my life, and have been wearing glasses since five I am now 24 and, although the glasses help me see better, they have not improved my condition.

What do you advise?

Answer: Nearsightedness cannot be cured. However, properly fitted glasses help to keep the condition from becoming worse.

Home Remedy

CLEVELAND (UP) —When police found a 30 gallon drum used for making whisky in Walter Thomas' basement, a pint of moonshine in his icebox and several empty jugs that smelled suspicious, they fined him $200 and costs and put him on probation. Thomas denied the moonshine was for sale, said he was just brewing medicine to cure a friend's five children of Asian flu and attempted to prove it with testimony by the friend that her children were cured the next day.

New Motion Picture Process Is Unveiled

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — A brand new motion picture process, modestly named "Cinemiracle," was unveiled this week. It's a Cinerama — like gimmick that overwhelms audiences with sheer bigness.

Cinemiracle provides more three - dimensional effect than Todd-AO, VistaVision or CinemaScope, and improves some of the technical facets of Cinerama.

A three-camera process requiring a trio of projectors and special sound equipment, Cinemiracle is the best of big screen efforts to date.

Demonstration of the jumbo process was presented in the Melrose Theater, a defunct popcorn palace which folded when television stomped onto the scene.

No Repetition, He Hopes

In a speech preceding the showing, Elmer C. Rhoden, president of National Theaters, Inc., looked around the shabby theater and said, "We hope that Cinemiracle can prevent this sort of thing from happening in the future."

As developer of the new method Rhoden claims his machine affords wall-to-wall, floor-to-ceiling viewing for the first time in movie history.

"The screen can go as high and wide as a theater allows," he told the Hollywood press corps. "There's no fixed ratio of height to width."

The experimental screen in Hollywood is 24 feet high, 63 feet wide. A demonstration screen in New York is 34 by 81 feet and 16 feet deep. Projection covers a field of 146 degrees wide and 55 degrees high—approximately that of human vision, which is 160-60 degrees.

Viewers "In" Picture

Cinemiracle gives a clear picture from any vantage in the theater—no blurring or distortion. Viewers really feel "in" the picture, a discomfitting phenomenon at times.

Test films included hair-raising rides up and down San Francisco's hilly streets, a wild trip through Philadelphia on a hook and ladder fire truck and a crash dive via submarine. Whenever the camera plunges unexpectedly it takes the viewer's stomach with it.

"Falling attendance and business setbacks in motion pictures resulted from not putting enough money back into research," Rhoden says. "When we sent letters to producers explaining our new development only Jack Warner gave us any encouragement."

Because of his interest Warners will film the second feature using Cinemiracle. It is fittingly titled "The Miracle."

The first picture is Louis de Rochemont's "Cinemiracle Adventure," a travelogue epic filmed around the voyage of a Norwegian windjammer and her crew, scheduled for release next March.

So optimism again flows in the jaundiced veins of movietown, but the big-wigs are reminded that a good movie with top stars will make money no matter what size the screen.

At the equator the average surface temperature of the oceans is about 80 degrees.

Durante Album of Nonsense

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UP) — Followers of Jimmy Durante on TV often have been puzzled over the spelling of the schnozz's "Club Durant."

The explanation is simple, says Jimmy. When he started the Prohibition era night club, he did not have enough money to afford the final "e" for the electric sign.

Much of Jimmy's wonderful nonsense is incorporated in a Decca LP, "Club Durant," which features Durante, Eddie Jackson, the late Lou Clayton and a number of guests who have appeared on his program, including Bing Crosby, Eddie Cantor and Al Jolson.

This is a fast-moving LP that brings Jimmy through all the songs associated with his name, among them "A Real Piano Player," a Jackie Barnett tune that Durante shares with Jolson.

Jolson Story

A new chapter has been added to the musical Jolson story. It's a Decca LP re-issue of some of the softer songs sung by the late and great jazz singer. In "Among My Souvenirs," Al is heard on sentimental numbers such as "Memories," "That Old Gang of Mine" and the title song.

Eddie Cantor is also a subject of a dazzling new Vik LP. "The Best of Eddie Cantor" is an up-to-date musical biography of Banjo Eyes, the songs that made him a big name in the theatrical world for more than 30 years. The album includes "If You Know Susie," "Makin' Whopee," "Margie," "Ida," and eight other rousing songs.

Platter Chatter

Platter Chatter—A must for collectors is Billy Vaughn's "The Golden Instrumentals" (Dot). Vaughn and his orchestra breeze through some of the best songs of the last few decades, among them "Blue Tango," "Betwitched," "Lisbon Antigua" and "The Third Man Theme. . .Bing Crosby shares honors with Buddy Cole and his trio on 'New Tricks" (Decca). A dozen numbers, including "On The Alamo," "Chicago" and "Chinatown, My Chinatown". . .Speaking of "Chicago," it's on the flip side of Frank Sinatra's newest Capitol hit, 'All the Way," and some of his fans will like the "Chicago" side instead of the pop tune. . .Jana Lund, the new Liberty star, may have the most sensuous voice of them all. Her latest coupling is "Johnny the Dreamer" and "Wishing Well". . .The Del Vikings have moved from Dot to Mercury with "Come Along With Me" as their opener for the switchover. . .Jimmy Dean's radio-TV fans will want a copy of his new Columbia LP, "Hour of Prayer."

WVU's Howley Is Named Most Valuable

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Senior guard Chuck Howley of West Virginia has been named by the Curbstone Coaches of Pittsburgh as his team's "most valuable" player for the 1957 season.

The Curbstoners also named tackle Jim McCusker of Pitt, end Les Walter of Penn State and defensive back Jack Butler of the Pittsburgh Steelers as most valuable players on their respective teams.

A similar award went to John Tucci, Carnegie Tech quarterback.

'Pike Auditors Are Retained

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission has voted to retain the Price Waterhouse auditing firm for the fiscal year beginning Nov. 30 to check toll road agency accounts.

The commission retained the firm at its regular meeting Tuesday. The cost was estimated to run between $16,000 and $19,500 plus expenses for the year. The commission also authorized payment of $22,000 to the firm for completed work on reorganization of the agency's accounting procedures.

During the meeting it also was pointed out that the newly opened Northeastern Extension experienced difficulty with snow flurries several days ago when cinders were not available.

Commission Vice Chairman Joseph J. Lawler said he had looked into the situation and "it will not happen again."

In other business, the commission tabled action on purchasing two 1958 Cadillac automobiles from a State College dealer when it learned there was no one to use more than one car. The agency Purchasing Department was instructed to see if two older models a 1955 and 1954, could be traded in on just one new car for the commission chairman.

The bids were advertised on the autos several weeks ago, but commission members could not determine who the second auto was requested for, so decided to buy only one.

Restrictions Lifted

VIENNA (UP)—The first newspaper stand to sell western newspapers in Communist Romania will be opened shortly in Bucharest, it was reported today. The Romanian Daily Scinteia said the "special stand" will sell papers and magazines "from France, Austria and other western countries."

Jobless Figure to Increase

By WILLIAM J. EATON

WASHINGTON (UP)—Government economists predicted today that close to four million Americans will be out of work by the end of February.

Labor Department forecasters said one reason unemployment may shoot well beyond the present 2,500,000 jobless figure is because of the waning boom in industrial expansion.

AFL - CIO President George Meany, indicating labor's concern over the job outlook, called on President Eisenhower to take immediate steps to bolster the nation's economy.

In Seattle, top organizers of the Teamsters Union met to "discuss the unemployment situation which is increasing all across the country."

Outgoing Teamsters President Dave Beck said today's meeting was one of a series called by him over the country's economic condition.

In other economic developments:

—The National Association of Manufacturers told a Senate-House Economic Committee Wednesday the nation's economy was hindered somewhat by government spending since "it is a withdrawal of manpower and other productive resources which might otherwise be used in expanding the economy."

—The House Small Business Committee summoned Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson, Federal Reserve Chairman William McC. Martin and other top government economic experts to hearings on financing problems of small business. Committee Chairman Wright Patman (D-Tex.) said Wednesday more U.S. business firms failed in September than in any September since 1953.

Says Output Was Steady

—The Commerce Department said the gross national product—the output of goods and services—continued at a steady record high levels during the July - September period. It said output ran at an annual rate of 439 billion dollars during the period—five billion dollars over the rate in the previous quarter.

The Labor Department economists based their prediction for a rise in unemployment on the fact that jobless totals failed to drop significancy in September and October. Normally unemployment dips to its lowest levels in those two months.

February usually tops other months in unemployment because bad weather halts much outdoor work and the Christmas rush is over.

French Papers Slam Pineau in Dulles Talks

PARIS (UP) — French newspapers scored Foreign Minister Christian Pineau today and said France came out on the short end in his talks with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Three top-circulaton dailies, "Le Figaro," "Parisien Libere" and "L'Aurore," all normally pro-American, said the results of the Washington conference were "slim" and "disappointing."

The leftwing "Combat" and the Socialist "Paris Journal" ruefully described the agreements reached as 'limited" and of "relative success."

Before he left here earlier this week Pineau said that no matter how successful his talks with Dulles turned out they could not soothe French public anger over U.S. and British shipments of arms to Tunisia.

The government's position in the dispute will be outlined next week. The National Assembly's Foreign Affairs Committee has asked Premier Felix Gaillard to appear before it then and give his views on the situation.

In London, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Conservative members of Parliament met in a secret session Wednesday night to discuss the arms to Tunisia dispute.

'Prowler' Goes Back to Pond With Other Ducks

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Police who answered a call from an hysterical woman who said someone was "coughing and making a lot of strange noises" outside her window took the prowler into custody after a struggle.

"There was a terrific battle," officer R. E. Doyle reported. "I got the prowler down on the grass but he bit my hand and got away. He ran out to the street and I caught him again. I got him into the radio car. We fought all the way to the station."

Lt. E. G. Hogan looked over the officer's suspect and admitted that while police sometimes can make room for stool pigeons in the city jail there's no room for a suspect that quacks.

"Take him out to the park and let him live it up with the other ducks," Hogan advised.
